Wire Tap At Brewster Foe's Office Disclosed

Hugh Fulton Firm's Phone Tampered With During 1947 Hughes Inquiry

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

Wires of the law office of Hugh Fulton, a bitter opponent of Senator Brewster (R., Me.) at the 1947 Howard Hughes inquiry, were tapped in the Occidental Hotel last year, The Washington Post learned yesterday.

Chairman Pepper (D., Fla.) of the District Subcommittee now investigating wire-tapping told reporters last Friday that the committee heard testimony the taps were made in 1947 at the hotel, 1411 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Pepper did not indicate whose wires were tapped.

The Washington Post was told that testimony showed the tapping took place in April and May of 1947.

The firm of Fulton, Walter & Halley has occupied the seventh floor of the hotel building since the spring of 1946.

Truman Committee Counsel

Fulton served as chief counsel of the Truman War Investigating Committee when the President was a Senator. Halley is Rudolph Halley, also a former Truman Committee member, and now chief counsel to the Senate Crime Investigating Committee headed by Senator Kefauver (D., Tenn.). Kefauver is a member of the Pepper committee probing wire-tapping.

In the 1947 inquiry, when Hughes and Brewster fought it out before a packed audience, Fulton and Brewster had their own side argument.

Brewster told the committee under oath that Fulton had warned him "that I might regret" investigating Hughes, the millionaire plane maker whose relations with the Government were being scrutinized.

Fulton, Brewster testified, came to him on April 3, 1947, and said he was there as both a friend of Hughes and a friend of Brewster. Brewster said he was so angry he called in his secretary and dic-

Colonel's Son, 4, Escapes Death In Bolling Pool

Four-year-old Jimmie Loughry can thank two colonels and a corporal for saving him from drowning in the officers swimming pool at Bolling Air Base yesterday at 12:45 p.m.

Jimmie, son of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. R. J. Loughry, stationed at Andrews Air Base, crawled into the adult pool from the children's pool. The daughter of Col. J. C. Robertson told her father, 'There's a little boy holding his breath under water an awfully long time."

Colonel Robertson and Colonel Costello pulled the unconscious boy out. Together with Corporal John Tyler, of the Headquarters Squadron of the 1100th Air Base Wing, they gave Jimmie artificial respiration. Last night Jimmie was in good condition at the base hospital.

New Hybrid Cotton Promises To Rival Advance With Corn

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

A score or more of top Government plant geneticists have succeeded in developing a triple hybrid cotton after 13 years of intensive study and "scientific trickery."

The new hybrid may do for the Cotton Belt what hybrid corn did for the Corn Belt between the two World Wars. In a cautious announcement, the Agricultural Research Administration states the new plant "holds tremendous promise for the rain belt," and that it shows "evidence of significant increases in vigor, yield and other characteristics."

"First of all," ARA states, "they are cottons strong enough to compete with synthetic fibers. They can be processed much more efficiently, with a great deal less waste. They will open new markets."

General distribution, ARA says, is not expected until 1956.

The triple hybrids were derived from a synthetic hybrid of three widely different species, Asiatic, American upland and Thurberii, the last a wild species growing in the mountains of Arizona.

The development was made possible by work originated in 1938 by the late Dr. James O. Beasley, who was killed in battle in Italy in 1943, and Dr. Thomas Kerr. At that time they were employed at the Federal-State Cooperative Experiment Station in North Carolina.

Beasley and Kerr applied lessons in theoretical botany they had learned at Harvard. Beasley took his doctorate under the late E. M. East, noted botanist, whose research led to the creation of hybrid corn. Kerr was a National Research Council fellow at the Bussey Institute of Botany.

"In recent years many of the most striking improvements in crop breeding have come through crosses between cultivated varieties and primitive types," ARA reported. "It is now commonplace for the plant breeder to go back to the germ plasm of the wild plant for disease resistance and other good qualities."

Kerr and Beasley were stopped in trying to incorporate fiber strength from the primitive cotton into the American upland. The species could not be crossed. The wild species have 13 pairs of

Doctor Visions Life Range Of 125 Years

Aged Can Be in Better Condition, Too, He Tells Gathering

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Life expectancy of man in "the present predictable future" may well range between 110 and 125 years.

And all but the "last several" of those years can be comfortable and without the disabilities now associated with old age, said Dr. Martin L. Gumpert, of New York, a specialist in diseases of the aged.

He spoke here yesterday at the opening session of the first National Conference on Aging at the Shoreham Hotel. Some 800 of the Nation's experts on matters concerning old age are assembled for the three-day exploratory forum.

Perhaps the majority of these were more concerned in conference discussions directed at finding ways to change today's customs, habits and attitudes to make man want to live to such a ripe old age.

Today, very few persons die of old age, Dr. Gumpert reminded the delegates. Still fewer will die of old age, he said, when doctors change their practice from today's emergency medicine to one of preventive medicine.

As an immediate help to the present aged, he recommended "more adequate" housing. Such housing is needed, he said, "to replace our present old-age homes, most of which are nothing but dumping places for the old and hopeless."

"We need and ought to have special housing which meets the requirements of old age," Dr. Gumbert declared. "Such housing would have medical and nursing care included in the rent. It is my hope that the insurance industry may see in this old-age hous-

Aiken, Martin Demand Full War Controls

Senators Say Truman Plays Politics With Mobilization at Home

By The Associated Press

Republican Senators Aiken (Vt.) and Martin (Pa.) yesterday accused the Truman Administration of playing politics with home front mobilization and demanded an all-out program at once.

Aiken contended that President Truman refrained from asking Congress for wage-price-rationing controls "for political reasons." He declared Mr. Truman "has been negligent in leaving the American people in the dark about the gravity" of the world situation.

Martin struck a similar theme in asking: "Can we wait until after the November elections to tell the people of America the real truth? Can we place votes first?"

Aiken and Martin expressed their criticism of the Administration as the Senate headed for a vote probably Friday on an economic controls bill. It would give

Stolen Auto Driver Escapes After Chase

Pursued by a Maryland State trooper at speeds as high as 85 miles an hour, a driver slowed his car in Laurel, Md., yesterday, leaped out, and fled.

According to police, the car was stolen in Baltimore several hours earlier. State Trooper Arthur Plummer said he first saw the car about 1:30 a. m., weaving recklessly in and out of traffic on U. S. Route 1, 2 miles north of Laurel. Plummer pursued it.

In Laurel, Plummer said, the driver suddenly slowed, leaped from the still moving car, and darted between two houses. The trooper vainly chased him a block on foot. The car came to a stop, undamaged.

To Build Up Raid Network

D. C. Defense Fund May Prove Insufficient, Gen. Young Says

"Several hundred thousand" dollars more than the pending $290,000 civil defense fund may be needed to build up the District's air-raid warning network and stockpile emergency supplies, Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young warned yesterday.

District Commissioner Young, who heads the planning program, spoke in a radio interview.

According to General Young, most of the $290,000 appropriation now being studied by Congress will be spent for:

A permanent staff with a "first class" man as director; a blueprint of the functions of existing city agencies in an emergency; a civil defense headquarters and a start on the warning net, and a campaign to educate the public on the program.

General Young would make no guess on the final total cost of civilian defense in Washington.

He advised city leaders across the country to "take the citizens into their confidence," and to "teach them to keep their heads and be sensible in an emergency."

He also recommended that United States communities expedite their defense program, not "because I think a great war is imminent," but because it takes time "to work up and implement a good plan."

Each city needs a first-class director to prepare a sound program tailored to that area's peculiar needs, General Young added.

When Congress votes $290,000 for Washington, Young said, the first move of the Commissioners will be to appoint a full-time civil defense staff and director.

He said he will announce the selection of a director as soon as it is made.

As in the last war when 80,000 volunteers manned Washington's civil defense setup, Young said the main burden will be carried by volunteer workers.

Revocation Of Bail Asked For 11 Reds

Threat to Country Seen in Freedom; Judge Swan Issues Show Cause Order

The Government announced yesterday it is seeking to have the bails of the Nation's top 11 convicted Communist leaders revoked on grounds their conduct and activity is dangerous to the security of the United States.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said Federal Judge Thomas W. Swan has issued an order requiring the Communist leaders to show cause in New York on August 17 why the bails should not be revoked, sending them to jail.

The Communist leaders were convicted in New York last October 14, on charges that they conspired to advocate the violent overthrow of the United States Government.

All But One Out on Bail

All except one have been free on total bonds of $260,000—ranging from $20,000 to $30,000 each.

The convicted leaders are:

Eugene Dennis, John B. Williamson, Jacob Stachel, Robert C. Thompson, Benjamin J. Davis, jr., Henry Winston, John Gates, Irving Potash, Gilbert Green, Carl Winter and Gus Hall.

Dennis is already serving a prison term for contempt of Congress.

McGrath said that the decision to ask the court to send the group to jail was taken after he had conferred August 10 with Irving H. Saypol, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

The Attorney General said Saypol prepared and executed an affidavit stating reasons why the Justice Department deemed the action necessary.

On the basis of this action yesterday, McGrath said, Judge Swan issued his order for the defendants to answer August 17 in New York in the Second Circuit Court of Appeals.

Grounds Stated in Affidavit

McGrath said the grounds stated in the affidavit were:

"There does not exist any substantial questions as to the judgment of conviction herein, and the defendants have pursued and will continue to pursue a course of conduct and activity dangerous to the public welfare, safety and national security of the United States."

The conviction of the 11, under the Smith Act, had been upheld by an Appeals Court in New York on August 1.

Judge Harrie B. Chase, who announced the unanimous opinion of three judges, said the act does not outlaw the Communist Party nor revolutionary thought.

But it does prohibit, he said, the urging of forcible action to accomplish drastic changes in the American form of government.

GOP Assails 'Failures' of U. S. Policies

Full Assault Begun On Administration's Far East Actions By Group in Senate

NYHT News Service

Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last night charged the Democratic Administration gave Russia "a green light to grab whatever it could in China, Korea and Formosa."

Four of the five minority members joined in signing the statement. They are Senators Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Bourke H. Hickenlooper of Iowa and Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., of Massachusetts.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, ranking Republican member and one of the architects of the bipartisan foreign policy which has worked so well in the Atlantic area, did not sign. He has been ill for months, and reentered Georgetown University Hospital here only Saturday. But he read the statement and is in "general agreement" with its viewpoint.

The statement is a major political and foreign policy pronouncement. It establishes the line which the Republican Party will take in the Congressional election campaigns this fall.

Condemns Past Policies

It indicts the "blindness, failure and refusal of American leadership in 1945" to recognize the threat of communism.

It cites the success of the bipartisan foreign policy in the Atlantic area and emphasizes that there never was such a bipartisan policy in the Pacific.

It calls for a united American objective to regain "the initiative which we threw away in 1945" to attain "victory against aggression."

Once "we regain the initiative," the statement said, we must redouble efforts through the United Nations to:

1. "Establish a reliable program of international inspection and control of atomic activities."

2. "Halt lawless aggression of the strong over the weak and the slavery which communism inflicts upon its victims.

3. "Pursue every effective means to give greater strength to the United Nations," including, if necessary, a special session of the General Assembly to rewrite the U. N. Charter and limit use of the veto.

Train of Disasters

Failure in 1945 to recognize the real aims of the Kremlin, the Republicans declared, brought a long train of disastrous circumstances and lost for the United States "the initiative and the influence for peace which we had won by force of arms" and by

Inflation Main Worry

Record Civilian Output Seen Despite Defense Production

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter
(Last Article in a Series)

America will accomplish the defense program goals now proposed for the next 12 months, and at the same time it will produce more for civilians to consume than ever in history.

Even as the actual spending for defense needs increases in the succeeding two or three years, the decline in the present lush levels of the civilian economy will be small.

The explanation? First, during the next 12 months, our rate of defense spending probably cannot be increased by more than 7 to 10 billion dollars. Second, as this occurs, and as even higher spending takes place in future years, our total production will also be increasing by somewhere between 8 and 10 billion dollars a year, each year.

With this abundance in sight, why do we have to worry at all about economic controls? Is there any reason to fear inflation?

Unfortunately, there is, despite the prospect of abundance. The pressure toward inflation comes not alone from the added military production, but from the fact that it is coupled with a tremendously high purchasing power of the civilian population.

It comes at a time when civilian ability to buy is so high that there were already some prospective shortages of basic items—steel, for example. The military production will absorb somewhere from 8 to 15 percent of our total output; yet we are able, indeed eager, to buy up the entire 100 percent, and even more.

As our economy grows in the next years, what is left over after military needs are met may be in absolute amounts close to what we, as civilians, are now consuming. So our living standard can stay at or close to its present record high level. But our ability to buy is even greater; we compete with our extra purchasing power to drive up the prices of what there is for sale to us.

Most Washington economists believe the President's proposals include the best measures to combat the inflationary forces. They consist mainly in high taxation to cover the added military outlays, and general and selective restrictions on credit.

The economists believe, moreover, that although the inflationary pressures are severe and although there will be troublesome scarcities in some things consumers want, the situation is not one that

Do you remember a sunny Sunday afternoon when you were 17? A ride with your date, a tennis match or a walk in the park?

Jimmy Winston is 17, but he spent Sunday afternoon in a Walter Reed Hospital bed—one leg in traction, the other with a neat hole where the bullet passed through.

Outside the hospital, people were enjoying the bubbling fountain, the spacious lawns, the bright red flowers, as they strolled in the warm sunshine. Others were zipping by the grounds in their cars en route to Rock Creek Park, the Zoo or the ball game.

Foe Masses 150,000 Along Front Of 140 Miles

Full 24th Division, With Reinforcements, Attacks to Wipe Out 'Most Serious Threat'

Tokyo (Monday), Aug. 14 (AP).—The United States 24th division launched a major counterattack against a threatening Red bridgehead across the Naktong River today as the Communists massed possibly 150,000 troops along the entire Korean warfront.

The battle-tested 24th attacked at dawn in full division strength with reinforcing units and air support. Shortly after noon General MacArthur's headquarters reported the advance was "proceeding satisfactorily." Associated Press front line dispatches said it had carried through mud and heavy mortar fire beyond its first objective.

150,000 Red Troops

A spokesman at MacArthur's headquarters said the Reds had built up a force of perhaps 150,000 men along the 140-mile battlefront for the long-awaited big push against the United Nation's beachhead. Of this force, comprising 15 divisions, 60,000 or more men were along the thinly-defended Naktong barrier.

Estimates of enemy strength jumped with identification of units from two more divisions.

The attack by the 24th was variously described as intended to drive a force of 13,000 North Koreans back across the Naktong, to throw the expected Communist offensive off balance, and to regain lost ground.

A MacArthur spokesman said the Communists had reinforced their bridgehead in the Changnyong area to more than divisional strength and in weekend attacks had driven units of the 24th from dominating ridges. He said the Reds gained a mile in these assaults, wiping out previous advances by the 24th.

The Communist foothold in this area, covering eight square miles, was called "the most serious threat" to the American defense line in Korea.

New 'Tiny Tim' Rockets Take Heavy Red Toll

North Koreans Massed For Offensive Chief Objective of U. S. Planes

Tokyo (Monday), Aug. 14 (AP).—Allied aircraft struck hard Sunday at North Korean ground troops massing for an expected major offensive against the Naktong River line, Far East Air Force headquarters reported today. Strafing attacks also netted an estimated 300 Red casualties near the flaming town of Pohang on the east coast.

Carrier-based planes, using the newly developed "Tiny Tim" rocket in action for the first time, destroyed 13 North Korean locomotives, damaged 23, blew up eight cars loaded with ammunition, set two fuel oil trains afire, and strafed seven cars loaded with troops.

"Tiny Tim" is an 11.75 inch rocket developed after the Second World War.

Fighter pilots of the U. S. and Australian Air Forces spread a hail of rocket and machinegun fire on Red troop concentrations in the build-up area around Waegwan, 12 air miles northwest of Taegu. Headquarters said the fighters took a "heavy toll."

While tactical aircraft roamed the battle zone, big Superfort bombers ranged far north on strategic strikes. They hit bridges in the North Korean's badly hammered railway system and a chemical plant.

The 300 Red casualties were inflicted in the vicinity of Angang, seven miles southwest of Pohang, reported Associated Press correspondent Don Whitehead.

B-26 light bombers Sunday night blasted the marshalling yards and Communist radio station at Seoul, fallen South Korean capital. The station went off the air during the attack.

The bombers were from the Third Bomb Wing, stationed in Japan.

17 D. C. Doctors, 4 Dentists Face Draft in 2d Army Call

Seventeen Washington doctors and four dentists will be called to active duty by October 6, Second Army surgeon Col. Harold W. Glattly announced yesterday.

They will be part of the Second Army quota of 141 doctors, 69 dentists, 9 veterinarians, and 77 medical service corps reserve officers.

The Virginia quota is 10 doctors and 4 dentists; the Maryland quota, 8 doctors and 4 dentists.

One third of the 296 medical officers to be called in the seven-State area will report by September 22, Glattly said. Another third will report by September 30, and the final third by October 6.

No specific State quotas for veterinarians and medical service corps reserve officers are available at this time, Glattly said.

The Second Army surgeon said that he is asking the president of State and District medical and dental societies to help him compile a list for the recall of doctors.

The District Medical Society has already announced a five-point priority plan for getting doctors into the armed forces. Under the plan, based on persuasion but readily adaptable to a compulsive draft, the first dotcors to go would be those who were educated at Government expense without seeing active service.

The society's executive board also has proposed that county medical societies set up procurement and assignment committees to determine where individual doctors stand in the priority plan.

Any volunteer enlistments or returns to active duty, by the doctors, Glattly said, will reduce the State quotas correspondingly.

Doctors volunteering are eligible for $100 extra pay a month, whereas doctors who join up involuntarily are not eligible, Glattly said.

MacArthur Now Acclaimed Hero By Both Parties

By The Associated Press

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, once a passive candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, appeared yesterday to be figuring unwittingly in the congressional election campaign.

The general, who has his hands full in Korea, is by way of being claimed by both Democrats and Republicans as their own particular war hero.

For some Republicans, MacArthur has become the symbol of reviving American military might that will overcome what they call Administration "blunders" in the Far East.

Similarly Democrats, from President Truman on down, are giving MacArthur the kind of praise he had no thought of collecting two years ago when he allowed his name to be entered in the Wisconsin Republican presidential primary.

Early Sees Long Job Ahead in Korea War

American forces in Korea have performed a "military miracle" but a long hard job is still ahead and will "have an impact on the way we are going to live for some time to come," Deputy Secretary of Defense Stephen Early said last night.

His sober report was part of the initial program in a weekly television roundup "Battle Report" on NBC in which Government officials will brief the American public on defense measures at home and abroad.

Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) chairman of the Senate-House Attomic Energy Committee, who took part in the radio program with Early, contributed another to the serious hints that the A-bombs used on Japan were puny compared with modern nuclear weapons.

Discussing an Atomic Energy commission report released last night, McMahon explained that its information on the effects of A-bombs is based on "nominal atomic bombs of the old-fashioned Hiroshima and Nagasaki type." The word "nominal" was underscored in the prepared script.

McMahon deplored the necessary emphasis in that report on destructive uses of the atom and defense against such use.

It might have been a report "teling how the atom bomb will enrich your life and mine," the Senator said, but "the Kremlin alone" forces emphasis the other way.

"In this fact," McMahon went on, "lies the deepest and starkest tragedy of our time—a tragedy which threatens 10,000 times more casualties in an hour than all the heroic American soldiers who have fallen along the Korean battle front.

"Not only our troops in Korea but every man, woman and child on our home front live amidst growing danger. Regardless of what else happens, that danger will inevitably continue to grow as long as the rival stocks of atomic bombs in Russia and America are permitted to pile higher and higher."

That Russia has some atom bombs is a "simple, indisputable fact," the Senator said.

But he added he still has faith that "the men in the Kremlin can be brought to their senses."

Polio Spread In Southwest Va. Is Noted

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 13 (AP).—Only four cases were reported from polio-stricken Wythe County today, but a heavy load of new cases admitted to Memorial and Children's Hospital in Roanoke gave a graphic picture of the dread disease elsewhere in southwest Virginia.

Hardest hit over the weekend was Damascus in Washington County. Late Saturday night, the hospital admitted a 15-month-old girl from there; tonight attendants said they were expecting three more cases from Damascus before the night was over.

The community already has a total of four cases, with one death. Also admitted Saturday night from Washington County was a 1-year-old boy from Bristol.

Tazewell County recorded two more cases late Saturday.

Confirmation that a 28-year-old woman from Buena Vista was suffering from the disease was made today, and this gave Rockbridge County its first case in the current epidemic. She was brought to the hospital here Saturday night.

Wythe County reported four new cases today, two of them being delayed reports. The new cases were those of a 39-year-old man from Rural Retreat, a 4-year-old girl from Max Meadows, a 3-year-old boy from Ivanhoe, and a 24-year-old man from Max Meadows. Wythe's total in the epidemic is now listed at 145.

One case each for Smyth and Pulaski Counties were recorded today also. The Smyth case is a 4-year-old boy from Marion; Pulaski's is a 7-monthold girl.

Memorial and Crippled Children's Hospital admitted a total of 13 cases Saturday, one of its busiest days. Today three were admitted and four more were expected.

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—O. John Rogge, leading American to sign the Communist-supported Stockholm Peace Appeal, announced today he had changed his mind and is going to Prague, Czechoslovakia, to ask the World Partisans for Peace to brand North Korea as an aggressor.

Rogge, a former assistant United States Attorney General, said he would ask the original signers of the Stockholm appeal to outlaw aggression by whatever source and whatever country.

He said he would "challenge the dogma that capitalism causes wars."

Rogge said he held little hope that his proposal would be adopted. "They may even throw me out," he said.

War on USSR Urged If Satellites Sap U. S.

High Point, N. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—Representative Durham (D., N. C.), vice chairman of the joint congressional atomic energy committee, said today the United States must make war on Russia if she tries to defeat this country by use of Soviet satellites.

Jimmy flew from Tokyo by plane and then to Bolling Field Saturday. 'It felt good to be home. I got a phone and called my mother. She could hardly talk; she started crying.

'She got here in an hour with my stepfather—he's been just like a father to me right along—and my three sisters and my girl friend. It was swell." [The girl friend is Helen Martenot, 4405 71st ave., London Hills, Md.]

His mother, Mrs. Anna Lee Fletcher, and his stepfather, Robert Fletcher, were there most of yesterday afternoon. Fletcher was discharged from the Navy last month after serving six years.

Draft Call Promptness Is Noted

Men called by Selective Service here are reporting more promptly and more are qualifying for service, local draft officials said yesterday.

District Selective Service officials do not plan any special inductions in August for men who have failed to show up on time, as planned by Virginia draft authorities.

In Virginia, 204 delinquents will be inducted the week of August 21 without benefit of the customary 21-day waiting period.

"We haven't yet found any who we feel are definite evaders," said Frank D. Norton, deputy District director of Selective Service.

The rate of those passing the Army qualifications has recently gone up, and officials expect the rejection rate to continue to drop because more 23-year-olds are being called.

20,000 In N. Y. Defense

New York, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Mayor William O'Dwyer and Civilian Defense Director Arthur W. Walinder announced today that an auxiliary fire-fighting force of 20,000 persons will be formed to aid in this city's civil defense.

Fifth of U. S. Defense Funds Bought Weapons or Research

By David McConnell
NYHT News Service

Only one out of every five of the $48,440,000,000 appropriated for defense spending during the past four years went for new weapons or military research and development, Senator Millard Tydings (D., Md.) said yesterday.

Tydings, head of the Senate Armed Services Committee, released a breakdown of defense spending in a radio interview apparently designed to answer Republican criticism of preparedness spending in the four-year period prior to the Korean war.

The great bulk of the appropriations were needed to pay military personnel, buy their food and maintain existing equipment, Tydings said. He noted that the Republicans controlled the House and Senate for two of the four years—1946 to 1948.

His figures included:

Nineteen billion eight hundred sixty million dollars for pay, food, clothing; $12,780,000,000 for operation of aircraft, battleships, military installations and mechanized equipment; $8,530,000,000 for purchasing weapons such as aircraft and ships; $2,250,000,000 for research and development.

One billion three hundred ninety million dollars for administration and classified projects; 780 mlion dollars for retirement pay; 490 million dollars for military public works; 390 million dollars for "mobilization and war readiness."

Tydings said that of the $8,530,000,000 spent for new weapons, $6,260,000,000 went for aircraft—"fighters, bombers and so on"—to keep the Air Force modern; 810 million dollars for ships and 460 million dollars for weapons of all kinds.

On general defense policies, Tydings asserted that "with the Navy, the Air Force and our stockpile of atomic bombs, we certainly are the equal and, I believe, the superior in those categories of any nation on earth."

How Selective Service Works Here Discussed

How Selective Service works in the District was discussed on the District Round Table over radio station WWDC yesterday at 10 p. m.

The forum, conducted by the Junior Bar Section of the District of Columbia Bar Association, presented Frank Norton, deputy director of Selective Service here; Maj. R. J. Gowan of Selective Service national headquarters, and Col. A. G. Stone, office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1, general staff, U. S. Army. Ben Paul Noble of the Bar Association was moderator.

Phillips' Said It For Years...
NOW READER'S DIGEST CONFIRMS:
Mouth Acids Cause Tooth Decay!
PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA TOOTH PASTE NEUTRALIZES MOUTH ACIDS—ON CONTACT
—because it contains one of the fastest, most effective acid neutralizers known!

Now there can be no doubt about what kind of tooth paste you should use!

Mouth acids cause tooth decay! This fact—which the makers of Phillips' Tooth Paste have been telling to all America for years—is now confirmed by Reader's Digest in an article entitled "A Sensible Way To Lessen Tooth Decay".

This Reader's Digest article also reveals that scientific tests indicate that tooth decay can be reduced 50% to 60% —by brushing your teeth and combatting these mouth acids after each meal.

This leaves no room for doubt about what kind of tooth paste you—and everyone in your family—should use. It makes it vividly clear that what you need is a tooth paste that will combat mouth acids—and do it effectively.

That means Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tooth Paste! For Phillips' Tooth Paste actually neutralizes mouth acids —neutralizes them on contact!

Yes—Phillips' Tooth Paste neutralizes mouth acids on contact. And the reason is that Phillips' Tooth Paste contains one of the fastest, most effective acid neutralizers known.

So don't let mouth acids destroy your teeth. Today, get a tube of cool, minty tasting Phillips' Tooth Paste and see for yourself how effectively it helps prevent tooth decay.

Phillips' MILK OF MAGNESIA Tooth Paste

EVERYONE HAS MOUTH ACIDS!
Children, grown ups—everyone in your family—should use PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia TOOTH PASTE immediately after each meal . . . because the mouth acids that cause painful, expensive cavities are almost invariably in everyone's mouth, right after eating. Get a tube of PHILLIPS' TOOTH PASTE today. You'll enjoy its cool, refreshing taste . . . and you'll be delighted to see how effectively it helps prevent tooth decay.

Nazi Victims To Get Back 100 Millions

Frankfurt, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Former victims of the Nazis have recovered money and property estimated at a total value of 418,696,927 Deutsche marks, about 100 million dollars, in the American Zone of Germany, United States High Commission officials revealed here today.

They said this was the first cumulative figure made public since 20,000 claims cases made by July 31. Approximately 85,000 cases still remain to be settled.

The officials said the value of the property setttlements of the remaining cases was "impossible tto estimate," but that the amount of property recovered by persecutees—mainly Jews—would never exceed a fraction of the property acquired by Germans under the Hitler regime.

Of the total amount, the vast majority went to individual claimants, only 3,690,000 D-marks ($880,000) going to the Jewish Restitution Successor Organization—established to recover property of Jews who died without heirs. The money is distributed among Jewish welfare organizations.

The officials emphasized that the figures applied only to the four States of the American zone, and did not include the American sector of Berlin. They had no comparattive figures for the British and French zones, whose restitution programs, they said, had made considerably less progress.

Vienna, Austria, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—The clandestine Hungarian language publication Magyar Kommunista said today "recent Cominform talks in Karlsbar (Czechoslovakia) presided over by Foreign Minister Vyshinsky broke up in discord over Russia's refusal to start immediately a shooting war against Yugoslavia."

Magyar Kommunista, which is mailed from France to Vienna, said satellite representatives at the conference demanded "definite dates for Russia's long-promised military actions against Yugoslavia which they consider a threat to their security."

It said Vyshinsky refused to commit himself and "promised only that the number of Russian troops stationed along Yugoslavia's border supporting Hungarian, Romanian and Bulgarian units would be increased in the near future."

The paper said Russia's present "inactivity in regard to Tito is being dictated by a rift between the Soviet general staff and the politbureau. The military circles feel that any aggression at the present time would gear up Western military preparedness."

Yugoslavia Denies Von Kleist Aiding Army

Blegrade, Aug. 13 (NYHT).—Yugoslavia categorically rejected today charges by the Cominform that former German Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist is serving as an adviser to Marshal Tito's army and retorted that Von Kleist is in the Soviet Union.

The Cominform accusations form part of an intense regime propaganda campaign to depict the heretical Communist regime in Yugoslavia as an important conspirator in an American plot to attack the Soviet bloc.

Train Crash Kills 20

Calcutta, India, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Calcutta-to-New Delhi "Cyclone" Express smashed into a freight train near Moghulsarai today, killing 20 persons and injuring 110 others. Reports said the wreck was caused by saboteurs.

Va. Air Guard In Maneuvers

Richmond, Va., Aug. 13 (AP)—Sixteen Virginia Air National Guard fighters intercepted an imaginary enemy today in warmup maneuvers for two weeks of training with other air guard units at Byrd Field.

The ground control interception problem for the Virginia ships was the only organized activity at the base Sunday.

On Monday, the 104th Fighter Squadron from Maryland will take off from the field for Camp Pickett for air-to-ground gunnery practice.

A total of about 800 men and 60 aircraft are based at the field for summer training.

Churchill Seeks Earlier Session For Parliament

London, (Monday), Aug. 14 (AP)—Winston Churchill today urged that Parliament be recalled from its summer recess before the September 12 date set by Prime Minister Attlee.

Churchill said September 12 "is altogether too remote and bears no relation to the crisis and the new facts which are before us."

Attlee, who called Parliament back last Friday, said in a reply sent to Churchill's home that all relevant facts had been considered when he fixed the date for reconvening.

Truman Greets Indo-China On First 'Voice' Broadcast

New York, Aug. 13 (AP)—President Truman extended personal greetings to the peoples of the Associated States of Indo-China today during the first Voice of America broadcast in the Vietnamese language.

The message, pre-recorded in the President's own voice, said the United States economic assistance program for Indo-China "is designed to stimulate conditions compatible with their religion and culture which will best serve the interests of the people."

It was followed by a Vietnamese translation. The program increased to 25 the number of languages utilized by the Voice of America in its world broadcasting service.

Mr. Truman said "military assistance is also being extended to provide the internal security for a vigorous, healthy and prosperous life in Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia."

Danger Seen For French In Indo-China

Saigon, Indo-China, Aug. 13 (AP).—The French army in Indo-China faced today for the first time the real danger that Communist-led Vietminh forces, reinforced by large-scale military aid from Red China, will soon be able to take the offensive.

The military balance in Indo-China has been shaken by reports the Chinese Communists are now training and equipping Ho Chi Minh's troops. As a result, military observers look for a change in the western defense strategy for Indo-China and Southeast Asia.

Pessimism is apparent in western power military circles here concerning French chances of defeating the Vietminh. And if the French effort in Indo-China is to be only a holding action, the question is whether it would be worth the cost.

French military sources have disclosed that Red China has opened training camps near the frontier for Vietinh troops. About 20,000 Vietminh are reported being trained and armed for action against the French.

Large sections of the Chinese frontier region in Kwangsi, Kwangtung and Yunnan are reported by French officials to have been converted into Vietminh base areas. Traffic across the border to Chinese training camps, which include an artillery school, is reported steadily increasing.

Parliament Vote Due Today On Unifying Indonesian States

Jakarta, U. S. I., Aug. 13 (AP).—The way was cleared today for a vote in parliament on a constitution abolishing federated states in Indonesia.

The lawmakers are expected to take such action Monday.

Approval of the new constitution would incorporate the 15 other original states of the United States of Indonesia into the Republic of Indonesia, The state which led the fight for independence from the Dutch.

The Jogjakarta radio announced a working committee of the Republican parliament had approved the draft constitution for the new unitary state by a vote of 31 to 2. Ten Communist members walked out of the committee meeting without voting.

The new constitution follows the pattern of the old republic of Indonesia and is more socialistic than the about to be discarded U. S. I. constitution. It calls for:

1. A parliamentary cabinet patterned after the western european democracies.
2. A single-house parliament made up of representatives of the U. S. I. and republican parliaments.
3. A strongly-centralized goverment administering 10 provinces.
4. A presidency occupied automatically by President Soekarno.

The new government will be provisional. Elections are to be held later for a constituent assembly to set up a permanent state system.

Everything at Steak!

By Albert Parchey Mesirow

WHAT STARTED OUT as a mildly indignant protest against the injustice of freezing taxicab rates at the 1942 level in these days of soaring 1950 prices, has turned out to be a full-blown campaign to increase your tips to the individual drivers. My friend and frequent hackie, Stanley Rideout, informed me one day last week that the cab drivers themselves are taking cognizance of my one-man crusade. "But," I asked, "do you notice any increase in the amounts of the tips you get?" Stanley thought a moment. "Well," he said, "A feller gave me a 50-cent piece for a 50c trip yesterday, and told me that if I could change a twenty-dollar bill, he'd gladly give me the 20c tip you recommend. But the project fell through. I didn't have change for the twenty!" I don't know if that's progress or not. But Stanley had one helpful suggestion. "What you need is a slogan," he told me. "Something like "Tip at least twenty, you got plenty!" Somethin' folks will remember and do something about." I like Stanley's idea. So I hereby offer a full-course filet mignon dinner for two, with absolutely all the trimmings, for the best slogan to promote bigger tips for cab drivers. The "contest" starts right now, and ends Wednesday, August 30, 1950, at midnight. Entries postmarked after that time cannot be considered. I am the sole judge, and my decisions are final. Keep your slogans down to 25 words each, or less, please, and mail or bring them with your name, address and phone number, to Parchey's, 19th & K Sts., N.W.

Speaking of entries reminds me of entrees, and that in turn reminds me (by a strange coincidence) of our New York Sirloin Steak. It's an entree that a more gifted person than myself could grow lyrical over. A great, thick, delicately marbled, magnificently tender, running-with-juice Sirloin, cut from a corn-fattened, pedigreed Mid-Western steer and naturally aged to the perfect peak of sumptuous flavor! We broil it exactly as you like it best, and it's served to you sizzling hot, drowned in a delectible sauce of earthy mushrooms, creamery butter and wine. When you nudge this Sirloin with your knife, the imprisoned juices cascade out in ruby rivulets, flecked with golden globules of fullsome fat. And each delicious forkful seems to melt away at the pressure of your bite, filling your mouth with succulent flavors! When the last tantalizing morsel has disappeared, reach into the roll basket, break off a bit of a soft bun, and (go ahead! nobody's watching!) dunk the juice that's swimming so deliciously in the bottom of your platter, begging to be enjoyed! We like folks who dunk. It means they're savoring their meals. So come to Parchey's. We'll see that your steak has plenty of dunkin' juice! The address is 19th at K, N.W.

Without doing an about-face on the Dry Martini, which I attempted, in my own fumbling way, to eulogize last week, I'd like to call your attention to the most satisfactory of all hot-weather drinks, the Rum Collins. There is, actually, no contest for favor between the Martini and the Collins, for one is a cocktail and the other is a long cooler, a "sipper," if you please. Our Rum Collins is made with a base of fine imported rum, selected from the myriad brands because of its sympathetic mixing qualities. We blend this rich and flavored nectar with the cooling juice of freshly pressed limes, in a frosted glass half-filled with ice, top with brilliantly sparkling soda and garnish with tiny slices of lemon and orange. Then, for beauty's sake, we sink a plump maraschino cherry in its bubbly depths. You'll like Parchey's Rum Collins for the simple and unbeatable reason that it tastes absolutely delicious! And for fifty cents, it's the beverage bargain of the year. Come in and try one. Our address: 19th at K, N.W.

Yanks Counterattack at Naktong Bulge

MacArthur's headquarters said Red thrusts in the Changnyong sector and at Pohang on the East Coast were "certainly coordinated" he speculated these were designed to draw off Allied strength from a possible main drive across the Naktong in the Waegwan sector, only 12 air miles northwest of Taegu.

Red reinforcements were pouring into the Waegwan area. Along the riverfront spreading out from Waegwan, the Reds have concentrated probably 60,000 troops.

Between Waegwan and Changnyong, the Communists made a new crossing with 500 men. But 300 of these were reported killed in the first four hours of fierce fighting with U. S. First Cavalry Division troops.

North of Waegwan, Red infantry with two tanks stabbed at the South Korean defense sector. An Eighth Army communique Monday said this penetration attempt failed.

The big Communist push appeared to be timed for Tuesday to coincide with the fifth anniversary of Korea's liberation from Japan.

While Communist forces continued to build up along the Naktong, bitter fighting flared at both the eastern and southern anchors of the 140-mile long battle line. Official sources and news dispatches gave this picture around the front:

East Coast—United States Air Force evacuated Pohang airfield. Tank-supported ground units held the field. A battalion of the North Korean Twelfth Division held the smouldering town of Pohang, 6 miles to the northeast. This division had not previously been identified among 13 Red divisions known to be on the front. United States Eighth Army headquarters termed its appearance ominous. Strong South Korean forces attacked Reds around Pohang.

Northern Sector—Communist strength was reported "thinning" as they built up along the western Naktong line.

Western Front—Reds continue to build up massed armies west of the Naktong River fronting Waegwan. Five hundred Reds made a new crossing at the Naktong, south of Waegwan but 300 were killed in first four hours by United States First Cavalry. United States Twenty-fourth Division launched an attack against 10,000 Reds on the east bank of the river in Changnyong area. The Reds failed to penetrate South Korean defense north of Waegwan with infantry and two tanks.

Southern Front—Americans held positions gained in a "successful" counteroffensive east of Chinju but fought bitterly against 1600 trapped Reds hammering at the U. S. rear. A detachment of marines was sent from forward positions to help clean out Red units cutting American supply lines and trying to hack an escape route through the trap.

In the Changnyong sector of the western front, the U. S. Twenty-fourth jumped off in a heavy rain storm. As the advance continued, the weather cleared and U. S. warplanes swept in with "strong and excellent support."

The assault began less than 24 hours after Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, visited this crucial sector. He called the Red bridgehead the "most serious threat" to American forces in Korea.

Maj. Gen. John H. Church, commander of the Twenty-fourth, said the objective of the attack was "to drive the enemy back across the river or destroy him on this side."

Meet Heavy Mortar Fire

The Twenty-fourth drove into heavy enemy mortar fire, Associated Press Correspondent Jack MacBeth reported, to make their deepest penetration of the 10-day-old Red bridgehead.

This was the first major American push to eliminate the enemy bridgehead. But in earlier, steady fighting, Church estimated, one Red regiment had been destroyed and most of another eliminated.

The Communists have continued to slip new infantrymen across the Naktong and reinforce them with tanks. Some tanks were moved across the river on underwater causeways.

The North Koreans have been helped by the dropping waterline of the river. In ten days it has dropped several feet from its neck-high level. This has reduced its defensive value to the Americans and South Koreans.

With the forces building up at night faster than they were destroyed in the daytime, the Communists felt strong enough to launch six small attacks of their own Sunday in the Changnyong area.

Air Force fighters and B-26 attack bombers buzzed angrily over the whole front, but aimed their sharpest blows at North Korean concentrations building up west of the Naktong River. Field dispatches said an air drop of supplies was being organized for defenders of the Pohang airstrip on the east coast.

During a 24-hour period ending Sunday, North Korean casualties were more than 2100, headquarters said. South Korean units estimated the Reds suffered 1588 casualties and American units reported they had killed or wounded 530 more. The South Koreans took 101 prisoners of war and the Americans 35.

American armor and troops rushed to the threatened Changyong sector to back up the battle-tired Nineteenth and Thirty-fourth Regiments of the Twenty-fourth Division.

The North Koreans who have been promising developments on the Aug. 15 anniversary also increased their strength.

For the past week the Twenty-fourth Division has been on constant alert to put down Red infiltrations across the Naktong from the west to eastern banks.

American counterattacks Sunday wiped out North Korean roadblocks behind Twenty-fourth Division lines, field dispatches said. A supply route was reopened between Yongsan, 6 miles southeast of Changnyong, and Miryang, 13 miles east of Yongsan.

Associated Press Correspondent Jack MacBeth reported that troublesome Reds who infiltrated through a southern hole and advanced within 3 miles of important American positions had been "wiped out."

Earlier a spokesman for MacArthur's headquarters warned that "a big show seems ready to break" northwest of Taegu.

The Red steamroller offensive was building up in the Waegwan sector, and east riverbank town about 13 miles northwest of Taegu.

The headquarters spokesman identified the North Korean Third Division as being at the river line. The North Korean Second Division lined up on the Third's north flank but was not yet entirely in position. The North Korean Thirteenth and First Divisions moved forward in line abreast north of the Second.

In reserve was the Red Fifteenth Division, located near the Thirteenth, evidently to be used for flanking operations if the opportunity comes.

The Red divisions were opposed by the United States First Cavalry Division south of Waegwan and possibly by two South Korean divisions north of Waegwan, on a battlefront about 20 miles long.

So far the First Cavalry had met each challenge and knocked out crossings with a heavy toll of enemy armor and troops.

The North Korean Fourth Division with an engineer regiment and artillery support was strung out along a two-mile battleline, about 28 miles southwest of Taegu, at the Changnyong bridgehead.

On the east coast, evacuation of American and South Korean defenders by sea from Pohang was a possibility. With five days of supplies on hand, the American commander, Brig. Gen. Joseph Sladen Bradley said his men would continue the fight to keep the airstrip and, with an air drop coming, he felt his forces could hold.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

NEW RED PUSH EXPECTED—The United States Air Force has abandoned the key Pohang airstrip (A), leaving behind a small force that may have to be evacuated by sea. With an estimated 60,000 men massed along the Naktong River front, the Reds stepped up pressure on Allied forces defending Taegu on the north (B) and to the south (C), where the Twenty-fourth Division launched a counterattack in an effort to knock the imminent Red drive off balance. On the Chinju front (D), Doughboys and Marines consolidated their positions

Call to Arms Ups Sales of Wedding Rings Over Nation

New York, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—The Korean war has started wedding bells chiming in a great chorus across the country, the Nation's largest manufacturer of wedding rings said today.

One of every three weddings is reflected on the sales charts of J. R. Wood & Sons Co., said W. Waters Schwab, its head, and the charts are climbing steadily.

The big surprise of both World War II and the Korean war is in the number of men now wearing wedding rings.

"Before World War II," Schwab said, "we only sold about 15 men's rings for every 100 women's rings. But during the war the figure jumped to 85 men's rings sold for every 100 women's. People may be getting more romantic."

Incidentally, wedding rings are cheaper now than in 1938.

Arms Scrapping Won't End Wars, Report Shows

World scrapping of arms—including atomic bombs and plans for the H-bomb—would not likely prevent war, a Foreign Policy Association report said yesterday.

William H. Kaufmann, Yale University instructor, said that if total world disarmament were feasible such action could delay an outbreak but it "would hardly make war more or less inevitable." "If nations wish to fight they will find ways and means of doing so," he observed.

The report, "The H-Bomb and World Order," was written in three sections by Kaufmann, Hans A. Bethe, Cornell University physics professor, and Peter Kihss, New York Herald Tribune reporter at the United Nations.

1367 War II Veterans File for Homesteads

By The Associated Press

The Reclamation Bureau said yesterday 1367 World War II veterans have applied for 54 homesteads on the bureau's Riverton, Wyo., project, to be distributed August 26.

One of the applicants is in Arabia. The others are from 41 States, including 156 from Nebraska, 140 from Colorado, 118 from Utah, 108 from California and 101 from Wyoming.

Only Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont were not represented in the filings, the Bureau said.

Wounded, Weary

65 Artillery Men Escape Reds' Trap

With U. S. 25th Division in Korea, Aug. 13 (AP).—Sixty-five American artillerymen—many of them wounded and all of them fight-weary — crawled through enemy encirclement to this front-line outpost last night and today.

They were survivors of a North Korean infiltration attack Saturday. It caught the artillery's rear echelon unwares, virtually destroyed it, and cut off both the artillery and the front-line supply route it was guarding.

Two units were trapped, three batteries of guns were almost certainly lost, and nearby are 15 burned-out hulks of trucks, torched by North Korean incendiary grenades.

No one knows how many of the hours of encirclement. That will be known when—they don't say "if"—a Marine rescue force fights through an estimated 400 North Koreans surrounding the area.

80 Still Inside Trap

The dust-grimed Marines pulled from a successful attack farther southwest, are now moving forward over the scrubby hills that flank this outpost.

Some survivors estimated there were about 80 tired men—many wounded still fighting inside the trap. M. Sergt. Joseph Zupan of Daisytown, Pa., estimated 75 to 100 artillerymen were killed besides their guns.

Zupan said one of the trapped units was almost wiped out. He said it was the same old story—a thin line of infantry up front, terrain-wise North Koreans stabbing until they found a gap, infiltration down to the artillery, and then the sudden attack.

Recon Men Credited

Credit for saving the 65 artillerymen who got back goes to the Twenty-fifth Reconnaissance Co., which tried brilliantly but unsuccessfuly to break through to them. When it couldn't get to the trapped men, the Recon company set up a new front line, apparently so close as to keep the enemy preoccupied while the trapped artillerymen crawled through his lines.

A veteran of North Africa, Sicily, Italy and France, Corpl. Bernard E. Dubinsky of Scranton, Pa., led 50 men out of the trap Saturday. He said: "A prisoner told us the Reds were coming, but no one believed him. At 4 a. m. mortars started and we knew we were in for it. They had a 90-milmeter high-velocity gun firing directly at three of our guns.

Gasoline Truck Hit

"They hit a gasoline truck which exploded and blew up three or four ammunition trucks, four weapons carriers and five jeeps. "We had about 15 dead boys. We couldn't stand up to our guns or they'd shoot us through the head or chest.

"I tried to flip grenades into one of our guns three times to wreck it but couldn't get there. We had a lot of wounded so I had the boys turn over cook stoves and make a circle, like covered-wagon days.

"What saved us was a kid with the name 'Angel' on his fatigues. He ran a tank retriever back and forth, using the machine-gun. I had other guys step-fire up the hill. That kept them off. Then an American plane rocketed the gooks, and I had the boys run for it up a dry river. We got nine vehicles and 50 men out."

Others came in by ones and twos.

Lake Success, Aug. 13 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council resumes Monday without any sign that its Russian president, Jakob A. Malik, has weakened in his oratorical blockade of action on Korean war questions.

Veteran observers who have watched the Russians here since early days of the U. N. expect Malik to keep on going until the end of the month, tying up Council procedure and making long speeches.

He has given no one in the U. N. any hint he will modify his stand. He has also kept secret whether he'll come back to the Council after August 31, when his presidency ends. But, U. N. sources say, the Russians indicate no change in plans to show up for the General Assembly September 19.

Official London and Washington appear agreed that the talking isn't all wasted time. They take the view that the more Malik talks the more he hurts his cause. He hasn't stopped aid given to South Korea before August 1 or the help, including more ground troops, that U. N. sources say is now quietly mounting.

Some feel that the United States and Britain caught up with Malik by their statements last week in battle, especially by appealing to the pride of India and Asians.

Malik's speeches aimed at blackening the United States as the new colonial menace in Asia. In making them, he had little but insults for other countries.

The gloves-off statements of Warren Austin, chief United States delegate, and Sir Gladwyn Jebb, Britain, hammered home that 53 of the 59 U. N. members support collective action in Korea.

This was Malik's angered retort:

The United States is the aggressor in Korea. All the other nations were tricked by the "crude falsifications" of its reports and those of the U. N. Commission on Korea about the North Korean invasion. The other nations were gullible dupes "playing the U. S. game of aggression" and taken in by "a fairy tale of simpletons."

Australian Prime Minister Menzies in Tokyo for Conferences

Tokyo, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies arrived here today by plane and was greeted by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and other high officials.

Menzies, who will remain in Japan at least until next Friday, said he did not know whether he would go to Korea to inspect the war situation.

Others at the airport to meet him included Australian Ambassador W. R. Hodgson; Lieut. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British Commonwealth Occupation Forces; Air Marshall George Jones, Australian Air Force Chief of Staff; and William J. Sebald, political adviser to MacArthur.

British Commonwealth sources had reported earlier that MacArthur had rejected a request by Menzies for permission to visit the Korean war area. Diplomatic observers said they believed if Menzies asked to go to Korea his request probably would be granted.

British Ship Rescues Downed Yank Airman

Tokyo (Monday), Aug. 14 (AP).—A British destroyer rescued a shot-down United States Navy pilot after the American spent a night on a rock in the enemy waters of Inchon Harbor on the west coast of Korea, a United States Naval source said today.

The pilot, Ensign Elmer A. McCallum, jr., 27, of Belvedere, Calif., ditched his carrier-based Corsair in the harbor after it was damaged by Red ground fire in the Seoul area, 25 miles inland from Inchon.

He swam to a rock in midchannel. A searching amphibian plane failed to locate McCallum that night—he was hiding in a rock crevice. The destroyer from the force blockading the Korean west coast rescued him the next day, and Vice Adm. Arthur D. Struble, commander of the United States Seventh Fleet, sent a congratulatory message to Rear Adm. W. G. Andrews, commander of the west coast blockade force.

U. S. Plane Delivers 2 Trucks to S. Koreans

Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—The first flight of C-119 Flying Boxcars — new twin-engined transports — arrived in Korea today bringing two 2½-ton trucks.

The two planes were piloted by Capt. James L. Hill of Tulsa, Okla., and Lieut. Albert R. Samsa, Chisolm, Minn.

The trucks were for the South Korean government and were presented to President Synghman Rhee in ceremonies at the airbase by Lieut. Col. Franklin R. Sibert of the Eighth Army. United States Ambassador John Muccio and other American and Korean officials were present.

First Cavalry Kills 1000 Infiltrating Reds

With the First Cavalry Division on the Taegu Front, Aug. 13 (U.P.)—The First Cavalry estimates it has killed at least 1000 North Koreans in a two-day clean-up of infiltrating units which slipped across the Naktong River by night.

Many enemy troops who have come across the river in the last week remain at large in and behind the American lines. But as of this evening, every enemy pocket which might develop into a big striking force has been eliminated.

1950 Hurricanes Set

Miami, Fla., Aug. 13 (AP).—The Weather Bureau today issued its first advisory of the 1950 hurricane season, reporting a storm about 1100 miles southeast of Miami.

Publicity The Remedy

Last year an investigating committee headed by Senator Tobey unearthed really shocking evidence of the way in which charitable trusts can be used to avoid payment of taxes and obtain other ulterior advantages. For example, Textron, Inc., at the instigation of its president, set up so-called charitable trusts that provided the company with loans and risk capital. Of the millions of dollars received by these trusts only a small fraction of the total was paid out to the supposed beneficiaries.

To correct abuses resulting from the accumulation of funds by tax-free organizations that eventually use them for purposes for which they were not intended, the House voted to impose a tax (with some exceptions) on that part of the investment income of tax-exempt foundations that is not paid out within 2½ months after the year in which it is received. Unfortunately, in an effort to bring about needed reforms, the House failed to take account of the effect of a forced distribution of income on organizations, such as the Rockefeller Foundation, whose integrity is above suspicion and whose services to mankind are attested. Since investment income fluctuates from year to year, worthy organizations would be seriously hampered in carrying out long-range plans, if compelled to spend current income, when received, on pain of forfeiting tax-exemption privileges. By failing to distinguish between phony charitable organizations accumulating funds for purposes of tax avoidance and those accumulating funds for legitimate purposes, the House proposal would do a good deal more harm than good.

Consequently, the Senate Finance Committee voted last week to drop the House-approved provision and rely on publicity as a remedy. The organizations concerned would be required to publish statements of receipts, disbursements, and accumulations in accordance with regulations issued by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. If the facts are made known in such fashion, the Finance Committee believes that tax-exempt foundations would be forced by the pressure of public opinion to discharge their obligations to designated beneficiaries, instead of putting them off with promises of payment in the dim and distant future. Although publicity may be a less effective method of dealing with such cases of tax avoidance, we hope that the Finance Committee's recommendations will be incorporated in the tax bill as finally passed, in view of the difficult problems that would arise under the House plan.

UMT As Insurance

President Truman may have a point in deferring the request for universal military training legislation until the next session of Congress. This Congress has its hands full with other defense matters, and consideration of UMT might detract from more immediate needs. Mr. Truman, as a long-time champion of universal military training, certainly has not overlooked the lesson of Korea in this respect. Nevertheless, it is important to keep the issue before the people. In Korea the need for a reservoir of trained men—and the fact that the United States does not now have such a reservoir—has been demonstrated dramatically. It has been the lack of trained men as replacements which, as much as anything, has prevented the dispatch of more Regular Army units to Korea. It is also the lack of enough trained men in the reserves which has forced use of the draft.

No one holds that UMT would be a substitute for a larger regular military establishment, particularly a larger Army. But it would permit more effective immediate use of regular forces by providing a ready reserve of men schooled in the basic military arts. The main advantage of UMT would be a substantial saving in mobilization time—and time, as we are finding out in Korea, is a priceless ingredient. We are also finding out that the day of pushbutton war is not yet here, and that whatever form a major war might take, a substantial sum of military manpower would be essential. UMT is the most nearly painless way to obtain it. Young men would be inducted when they reached a certain age, assigned to one of the three services, and receive a period of intensive training, after which they could elect to remain in or to transfer to the active reserve.

The 1947 report of the Compton Commission, a group of distinguished civilians presided over by Dr. Karl T. Compton, described some of the social as well as military values involved in the concept of universal training. It is the most democratic way of recognizing the common obligation of all Americans to defend their country. To be sure, the invocation of UMT right at the moment would be a hindrance rather than a help, because it would require new camps and large numbers of men as trainers. But it will become important when the Korean conflict ends, and it would be a good law to have on the books to be implemented when the armed forces are ready. Now, when some of the former opposition to UMT may have been overcome by the logic of events, might be the psychological time to press for it.

Deceiving The Public

The Crop Reporting Board says that the prospects for virtually every food crop have improved since the outbreak of fighting in Korea and it forecasts another bumper food harvest. This forecast of abundance confirms the belief that the rise in food prices since last June is not due to real shortages, but is the result of hoarding and speculation that have created temporary scarcities of some commodities.

On the same day that the crop forecast appeared, the House passed a bill authorizing the President, at his discretion, to put ceilings on the prices of agricultural commodities as well as other goods and services, and a similar measure was being debated by the Senate. Would the enactment of this legislation—considered to be assured—make it possible for the President to halt or roll back unjustifiably inflated prices of farm products to the levels prevailing before the Korean crisis? The answer is that these so-called price control bills will not have any effect whatsoever on the prices of many basic agricultural products. On the contrary, they leave the way open for price increases.

Under the House bill, for instance, no price ceiling for an agricultural commodity can be set below its parity price or the highest price received by producers during the month ended June 24. Under the Senate bill the ceiling price cannot be below parity or the level of June 15—whichever is higher. As our John Ball pointed out in an article appearing Thursday in The Washington Post, under either the House or Senate formula wheat selling for 90 percent of parity in mid-July could advance about 11 percent before it reached permissible ceiling levels. Potato prices are at present at 73 percent of parity; corn, at 90 percent; eggs, at 89 percent; and oranges, at 34 percent. Consequently egg prices could rise 50 percent and oranges 200 percent before reaching ceiling levels. Furthermore, commodities such as cotton, wool, beef cattle, and hogs, now selling above parity prices would be protected from any substantial price rollbacks under the two-edged formulas incorporated in the House and Senate bills.

The House also struck from its bill a provision authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to set margin requirements on futures trading in the commodity markets. The Department of Agriculture has for many years urged Congress to impose tighter regulations on the commodity exchanges, and action is especially needed at this time to curb speculative excesses. Although speculative manipulation may have little effect on long-range price trends, it is immediately demoralizing. The runaway soybean market is an outstanding example, cited by Secretary Brannan, of the effect of too low margin requirements that invite speculation, and, as he says, makes the soybean futures market valueless for legitimate hedging purposes.

When the public awakens to the fact that the pending price control legislation has been so manhandled as to prevent effective control of the prices of agricultural products—and also processed foods—and to license speculative operations that have accentuated the rise in prices of farm commodities, it will be righteously indignant. We hope the people who have been deceived by the haste of Congress to regiment the rest of the country's economy will place the blame for this discriminatory control program where it belongs: on the congressional farm bloc that consistently puts the interest of a special group above that of the Nation.

Military Illusions

The aberration of the Senate in voting a 100-million-dollar loan to Spain could not have been successful without military support. In this particular the military are suffering from an old illusion—the illusion that manpower is everything. The military argument for the 100-million-dollar loan to Franco is that this would, among other things, put 200,000 Spaniards at Western disposal in fighting Russia. The image is conjured up of 200,000 Spaniards stepping over the Pyrenees and rushing to the Rhine to stop Stalinism. Nothing could be more illusory. The Spaniards are very brave people as individuals, but their army is completely untrained in modern war, with the worst equipment of any in western Europe. In addition, Spain is psychologically isolationist, without any feeling about Europe, in spite of the geographical location of Spain in Europe. Franco himself can never be "bought" to pursue any policy other than one that suits him.

The myth about the manpower of Spain survives many bitter lessons. How many people were misled about the manpower of France when confronted with the armor of Hitler's Germany? The odds against Germany in terms of manpower were 1 to 10, but the armor of Germany, directed by a combination of a man, an idea, and an organization, prostrated France. Or think of the mental distortion suffered by our military in the Arab-Jew contest in Palestine. Only the British trained and led Arabs of Jordan put up any kind of a show, the reason being that the undisciplined and unorganized Arabs were confronted by people infused with elan. There are all kinds of components that must be taken into account apart from manpower in the estimate of any given military situation.

Aid to Spain has to be appreciated in the context not only of the American self-interest but also in the interest of our European allies. Already the non-Communist Left in the labor organizations of western Europe is in a state of unease over the implications of the Senate loan to Franco. A similar concern is manifest in France over the constant military propaganda in behalf of arming Western Germans. First things first: let us increase the pressure for the organization of Europe, particularly the coal-steel combine suggested by Mr. Schuman. This is the preliminary to any arming of Western Germans, and, even then, Western Germans should be organized not in any national army but in a western European (or a United Nations) force. The gesture toward Spain as well as Western Germany only has the effect of hampering the organization of Europe. If we could rid ourselves of the illusion that manpower is everything, we should see the problem of Spain in perspective, and conclude that our best policy is to let the Europeans themselves make the pace on Spain.

No Billy Mitchells

Representative Dewey Short, among others, is now trying to build up Admiral Louis E. Denfeld as "the Billy Mitchell of this period." This is a distortion which needs to be spiked before it becomes a legend among the unknowing. Admiral Denfeld was in many ways a fine officer, but he was dismissed as Chief of Naval Operations because he lent his weight to what was tantamount to a Navy insurrection. However legitimate his protests against reductions in naval strength—and we never disputed them—the real burden of his argument before and during the congressional hearings last fall was that the Navy should determine its own requirements—in other words, that it should be allowed to play a lone wolf role apart from other members of the defense team. This narrow attitude has been transformed by the commanding personality of Admiral Sherman, who accepts both the principle and the practice of unification. The Navy and the defense establishment are the stronger for it—and for Admiral Sherman as Chief of Naval Operations.

The point is that the United States has had, and probably always will have, limited military appropriations. In other words, in time of peace the country cannot possibly provide, either in money or in men, all the forces to meet every possible contingency. It must be guided by a strategic concept agreed upon by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and it must take calculated risks. Until the Korean aggression occurred, the prevailing strategic theory was that the threat was all-out war with Russia, in which the initial American reliance would be on strategic bombing. That concept has now proved deficient. Indeed, it is possible that the use of satellite troops in Korea is the Russian answer to the American atomic bomb. Obviously, the atom bomb is ill-suited to this type of war. By showing up the deficiencies in ground troops and tactical aviation, the Korean affair illustrates how ill-prepared the United States is to come to the support of the United Nations in meeting limited aggression.

It by no means follows, however, that the strategic striking force was not and is not now necessary. Possibly the overstress on the A-bomb and the B-36 bomber encouraged an unrealistic feeling of security, and there is room for a good deal of doubt as to the probable effectiveness of atom-bombing in arresting major aggression. But who can say whether, if the United States had neglected this arm, the Russians would not have started something else? The "effective striking force of carrier-based planes and Marines to throw into Korea," which Mr. Short says we would have had if Admiral Denfeld's advice had been followed, would have been helpful, to be sure, but not at the expense of either the strategic striking force or Army units.

To introduce this sort of Monday-morning quarterbacking at this point is to miss the whole meaning of the hearings last fall and the limited resources with which the defense establishment necessarily must operate. Representative Short is particularly ill-qualified to suggest candidates as Cassandras or Billy Mitchells, having voted against selective service in 1947, the Greek-Turkish military aid bill, and the Korean-Formosan economic aid bill this year.

Appeal To Bankers

The Federal Reserve Board, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Home Loan Bank Board and the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks have made a joint appeal to banks and other lending institutions to avoid making loans that add to inflationary pressures. Voluntary restraints of this kind would not only reinforce Government efforts to tighten restrictions on consumer and mortgage credits, as recommended by the President, but would make it possible to bring pressure to bear on individuals applying for loans for speculative purposes, accumulation of excessive inventories and various nonessential projects.

The American Bankers Association had previously urged its members to avoid loans of an inflationary character, and a good many bankers are said to be following this excellent advice. These bankers are entitled to high praise, since loans of such type often meet customary tests of soundness and are good risks from the viewpoint of the individual lending institution. By rejecting inflationary loans, the banker recognizes his responsibility for helping to maintain a sound currency. He becomes a servant of the public, not merely a money lender whose aim is to make profits for stockholders.

Legality In Formosa

In Mr. Lippmann's August 10 column "A Diplomatic Counter-offensive" he gives the answer to Mr. Malik's contention that we are intervening in a Korean "revolution," but he adds: "But when this argument about civil war is extended to Formosa, Mr. Malik is less easily answered. Our own position is vulnerable and it is also unclear. . ."

Our position is vulnerable and unclear only because the State Department has chosen to make it so. The facts are that at Cairo, the three powers, United States, Great Britain and China agreed that Formosa should be returned to China in these words: "The three great Allies are fighting this war to restrain and punish the aggression of Japan . . . It is their purpose that Japan shall be stripped of all the islands in the Pacific which she has seized and occupied since the beginning of the first World War in 1914, and that all the territories Japan has stolen from the Chinese such as Manchuria, Formosa and the Pescadores, shall be restored to the Republic of China."

This was a promise, not an agreement. The agreement to restore Formosa to the Republic of China, everyone now feels, can only come with a peace treaty with Japan. Japan, as an occupied country, can make no valid agreement, any more than a person who signs a contract with a gun in his back, can be made to perform it by any court of law.

When the Japanese government, at the behest of General MacArthur, in 1945, signified a willingness to let Chiang Kai-shek occupy Formosa, as representing the recognized Republic of China, it did not change Formosa's status as a Japanese possession. This can only be changed at a peace conference with Japan participating.

Both Truman and Acheson have wiped off this fact with a statement that they cannot be concerned with legalistic quibbling, but the fact remains. And, as it now develops, it furnishes the only answer to Mr. Lippmann's question. Formosa is occupied, with Japan's consent, by Chiang Kai-shek who is the recognized Republic of China. Formosa, occupied by Chiang Kai-shek, is a Japanese possession. Therefore, the Russian satellites under Mao have no more right there, legally, the men from Mars; and the United States, as the occupying power in Japan, has every right to send our allied supreme commander there to discuss its defense from what are, in international law, the bandits who occupy the Chinese mainland.

In the case of Indo-China, we shall have to be more discreet. Here we must fight fire with fire, in other words, give as much help to the government as Russia is giving to the outlaws.

Medicine For Disaster

World War III preparedness demands all-out mobiliaztion of the healing arts. Nothing less will guarantee our Nation's survival. We should have a lay-by plan to nationalize every resource of the healing arts. Every doctor, nurse, hospital and allied technical resource must become obligatory servants of survival. If mass disaster strikes at home the Commander in Chief must have decisive power and control over healing.

This means immediate and maximal support of our Red Cross blood program. Those living in likely target areas should be immunized against typhoid and tetanus. The individual should know every technique of self-survival and self-help.

Organized medicine has a compelling duty to guarantee our Nation's survival. This should not be left to chance or human caprice. Therefore let us have the moral courage to prescribe compulsion for the healing arts if mass disaster comes.

"Home Rule And Korea"

I wish to commend The Washington Post for its excellent and timely editorial of August 7, entitled "Home Rule And Korea". As implied in its title the editorial was addressed to the urgent need for home rule. It also pointed out "the glaring denial of the principles of democracy" with which we are plagued by the prevailing policies of segregation and discrimination.

I would like to add that it seems to me that the recent decision in the Sholl's Cafetaria case was a blow to the cause of democracy, both at home and abroad. These people in the Sholl's case believe it is so vitally important for the United States to practice the democracy it professes that they have dedicated themselves to the task of eliminating the monstrous evil of segregation and discrimination from our democratic society. When they tried to put their convictions into practice they were arrested and were fined or imprisoned. What a comfort to the enemy that wishes to discredit our aims and purposes.

Sports Profiteering

Why all the sudden furor about war profiteering? This type of thing has been running rampant in the sports world for years, war or no war.

Major sports promoters, including the local ones, have overcharged on food and drinks to the point of imposition and selfishness. The paradox of the whole situation is that such commodities can be bought at a corner grocery or drug store for their original price. Why must major sports adopt such self-evident profiteering?

In the past few years, race tracks have added a new twist to profiteering. Twenty-five cents is added for parking privileges. After going to the expense of reaching the track and battling traffic all day, the sport fan must pay 25 cents to park.

These mercenary policies are small recogniton and respect for the patronage that supports major sport sports. It is about time such policies were discontinued and permanently abolished.

"Hopeful Democrats"

It seems rather ironical that The Washington Post deems it necessary to place emphasis, in its August 9 editorial, on the fact that the Democratic National Committee has purchased a building to house its organization opposite the Mayflower Hotel when your own organization found it necessary to tear down some old buildings to be replaced by a new million-dollar palace—opposite the Statler! Evidently 17 years of Democratic optimism and faith in the future of our country permeates the minds of some of our newspaper friends!

Hiring Reservists

I am in the naval reserve and also looking for a decent job. As a result of my membership in this organization, private employers will not hire me. In the past week, I have had four jobs slip by me because of this.

In all of these cases I had sold the employer on my abilities and qualifications until we got around to talking about my draft status. Once they find out about my draft status it is no soap. The excuse I get is that they, the employers, feel that membership in the reserve is patriotic, etc., but surely, I, the job seeker, must understand their position since my reserve status would put me among the first called while non-reservists and nonvets will be around a little longer and hence more valuable to them.

I am sure that this condition doesn't just apply to myself but to all other reservist job-seekers. If the job is half way decent, it is poor policy to lie about your reserve status. The only way out of this mess is for the Government to call us up to active service or for it to put the heat on employers from discriminating against us in their hiring policy.

Devil's Alliance

It is well that we Americans still live under law—the law of comparative freedom.

The other night at the Franklin Park forum, an ardent young Catholic heatedly told a young Protestant liberal that he (the liberal) should be put in jail because, though avowedly anti-Communist, he was also anti-Franco.

When Hitler threw his mad hopefuls at the vitals of Russia, Churchill announced that he would ally England with the devil to fight Hitler.

So now it appears that certain of our Senators would ally us with the little devil Franco to fight the big devil Stalin. These generous Senators are eager to give Franco one hundred million dollars out of my pocket and yours, theoretically for "armaments."

How much longer can America act as sharecropper to the rest of the world?

U. N. Army

This crisis in world history can be our opportunity to organize the United Nations army into a true guardian of peace and international law.

This army is now fighting under the United Nations flag. I would like to suggest that every individual in this force wear a United Nations insignia: such a symbol would greatly help to knit the contingents from the diverse countries into a homogenous fighting force.

These soldiers are the vanguard of the federated nations of the future. In order to speed up unification of our strength, Justice Owen J. Roberts has asked President Truman to call a convention of the member nations of the Atlantic Pact, to discuss how far we can go at this time to bring the democracies into a closer union. The Canadian government already has approved the calling of such a convention. Many thousands of American citizens have voiced their desire for closer union with all peace-loving peoples throughout the world.

As the army now fighting to free Southern Korea symbolizes our determination to protect all freedom-loving peoples, the torch of freedom, surrounded by a circle which is symbolic of unity, might well be chosen as the United Nations army insignia. NANCY HUNTINGTON.

The Battle; First Phase

WITH U. S. FORCES IN KOREA.—The first part of the American problem in Korea is to hold where we are. The fighting here still mainly consists of desperate, improvised defensive actions by exhausted and overdriven American and South Korean troops. The problem's second part, however, is to retake lost ground. And thus there is particular interest in our first offensive battle, on the approaches of the dirty little seaport of Chinju.

The battlefield, the southwest Korean coast, is like a mixture of the coast of Maine with a Chinese romantic landscape—all precipitous pine-clad mountain slopes, luminous blue bays among green cliffs, and narrow, terraced valleys where the thatched mud villages seem to grow like mushrooms from the brilliant green rice paddies. But with the few roads which are mere narrow, dusty tracks, and the key heights rising to 2000 feet or more, this is a better country to look at than to fight over in heats above 90 degrees.

The battle's purposes were, first, to gain room to protect our only good Korean harbor, Pusan, and second, to occupy positions threatening the rear of the main enemy forces now attacking our Naktong River defense line farther north.

THE BATTLE began on August 6, with air preparation. Our reconnaissance aircraft had already been searching out the enemy artillery, armor and transport, ammunition dumps and supply points. From dawn to dusk on August 6, bombs and rockets were laid down on these targets by over a hundred sorties.

The response of the North Koreans set the battle's pattern. The air preparation virtually reduced their forward elements to isolated bodies of infantry, supplied only by runners and supported only by such artillery as they had managed to conceal from our aircraft. But these tough fighters quickly adapted themselves to the new situation, either taking on the character of long-range penetration groups, or digging in on commanding mountain peaks. Throughout, their ability to find their way among and climb the mountains was the advantage of the North Koreans, while our advantages were air supremacy and vastly heavier artillery fire power.

On the night of August 6, our troops moved up for the jump off.

In the hot, pearly dawn of August 7, at 6:30 a. m., the jump off took place. The battle plan was simple. Two main, parallel roads traverse the coastal area that was our objective. The upper road was assigned to the Thirty-fifth Regimental Combat Team (which is a self-contained force of three infantry battalions with its own tanks and artillery).

Meanwhile, on the more important coastal road, the Fifth Regimental Combat Team was to lead the attack as far as a road junction where another track forked off through the sea cliffs. Here the First Marine Brigade was to come through, and the Marines and Fifth and Thirty-fifth Regimental Combat Teams were then to go forward abreast, with the Negro troops of the Twenty-fourth Regimental Combat Team guarding the rear.

On the upper road, all went well. The Thirty-fifth R. C. T. took the key heights early. The main enemy force in this sector was located in a little village and brought under heavy fire. By late afternoon Col. Henry G. Fisher was calling for bulldozers to cover the North Korean dead. But on the crucial coastal road it was very different.

Here, in the predawn darkness, our troops had failed to occupy the crest of a sugar-loaf mountain commanding the route of advance. The spearhead outfit, the Fifth R. C. T., was both very green and uncertainly led. And the sun had hardly broken over the rice paddies and mountains when both Marines and infantry were attacked by the enemy.

Steep mountains rose sharply from a broad valley cut by a small, clear, rocky stream. On one mountainside puffs of smoke indicated artillery hits on the Marine command post, and the Marine guns barked back. In a command post sheltered by the other mountainside, officers and men of the Fifth R. C. T. milled about dubiously, until they, too, were brought under mortar fire. Communications broke down repeatedly, but at intervals the telephone brought news of one company cut off, another halted, another threatened by infiltration on its flank. Under the blazing sun, a long file of Marines walked out along the dykes of the rice paddies to help deal with these threats.

TO THE INEXPERIENCED observer, the first two days of the battle seemed to be wholly composed of such isolated scenes and incidents—an infantry company clambering up a naked mountainside, while smoke from our shellfire plumed upward from the enemy lodgement on the crest—a huge tank turning a little aside to let pass a medic's jeep load of wounded—a worried knot of truck drivers consulting while sniper fire snicked the bushes by the roadside—the long ribbon of road around a mountain solidly covered with transport held there by the mortar and automatic weapons of an enemy road block—and all day and each day, the Marine Corsairs and jets and F-51s first dropping their bombs or rockets and then swooping back to strafe and strafe again.

Behind all this, a pattern gradually emerged. The North Koreans were using up their strength. Our men, at first gravely roadbound, were learning the ways of this mountain war. By the evening of August 8, we had still gained little ground but it was time for the battle to enter its second phase.

Today and Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

From Korea To Germany

A RESPONSIBLE German newspaper, the Rheinische Merkur, said recently that the Soviet policy is to promote civil war in Germany. With the country partitioned and with two German governments, civil war has always been an ominous possibility. But during the past year the signs have been accumulating that the Kremlin has gone a long way, even if it has not gone all the way, to a policy of promoting a German civil war.

Lippmann

The most important of the signs is the Berlin Congress of East German politicians which is to meet on August 26. According to the Communist Prime Minister of East Germany, Herr Grotewohl, the specific task of the Congress is in the paraphrase of the London Times correspondent in Frankfurt "to find a new form in the struggle of the German people for their national interest. Those powers must be resisted which disregard the rights of the German people. The occupation troops were no longer in West Germany to carry through the Potsdam Agreement but were now a pure army of intervention sponsoring a cold war. The American imperialists have carried the hot war into Korea, the national struggle of the German people must take other and more concrete forms."

UNDOUBTEDLY Herr Grotewohl was speaking on instructions from Moscow, and what he says fits exactly the Soviet doctrine—1950 model—as it was first outlined by Mr. Gromyko at the beginning of July and as it is now being developed and pounded home by Mr. Malik at Lake Success. When we translate it into our own terms, what the Russians have been saying since they set off the Korean explosion is that civil war, not international war, is the instrument of Communist expansion.

There is good reason, I think, to take seriously this definition of Soviet policy. In the present circumstances the Soviet Union stands to gain much from the civil wars. On the mainland of eastern Asia—in China—in Korea, and in Indo-China—nothing prevents a sweeping Communist victory except British, French, and American military intervention. On the other hand, an international war is a bad risk for the Soviet Union as it is for everyone else. It is certain that the Soviet Union could not win the war, in the sense of defeating the United States, and it is certain that, even if we could not defeat Russia, we would inflict deep and wide damage. Therefore there is reason to think that Mr. Malik is disclosing the real Soviet policy of the present time—which is to expand wherever local Communists can be helped to win a civil war that does not involve Russia in a war with America.

THIS hypothesis, if it is correct, supplies the answer to one of the glaring gaps in the accepted theory of the defense of the Atlantic nations. To rearm western Europe will take from two to four years. While Europe is being rearmed, it is defended by the American guarantee which presumably deters the Soviet Union from seizing Europe before it is rearmed.

The gap in the theory is some plausible guess as to what the Soviet Union would be doing during the next three or four years while Europe is being united, rearmed, and transformed into a military power. The usual explanation is that the Soviet Union would be working feverishly to accumulate a stockpile of atomic bombs. No doubt it will be working to do that. But much as I favor the measures to strengthen Europe, the theory of the long lull while the race of armaments goes on and on and has always seemed to me not the way things happen in this world.

BUT NOW, with the help of the Gromyko-Malik statement of Soviet policy and of Herr Grotewohl's pronouncement, I think we can see that there is not going to be a lull while the race of armaments is being run. What is most likely to happen is that as we become more and more deeply engaged in the Far East, subversive and insurrectionary movements will develop against us and against the governments we sponsor and protect in Western Germany and in Japan.

A full-scale offensive like that launched by the North Koreans could not be launched by the East Germans without involving the Soviet army from the beginning. If the Gromyko-Malik definition of present Soviet policy means anything, this is unlikely. Stalin will probably continue to act, as he did in the World War, on the orthodox military principle that the commander who can wait the longest to commit his reserves is likely to win the battle. But short of open military aggression in organized formations there are, in Herr Grotewohl's ominous words, "other and more concrete forms" in which the struggle can be waged.

THEY RANGE all the way from sabotage and underground resistance to insurrectionary strikes and guerilla action. If, as Grotewohl so plainly threatened, the armies of occupation are to be treated as illegal and hostile forces, a very difficult time may well be ahead of us. For in the act of defending ourselves we may find ourselves fighting Germans. In protecting Western Germany, which is unable to protect itself even against bands and agents from Eastern Germany, we would be advertising the fact that the Western German state is not independent.

THE PRACTICAL conclusion to be drawn from all this is, I believe, that measures adequate to enable the Germans themselves to suppress insurrection and to police themselves against sabotage and subversion are of the first importance to the security of Europe and to the prevention of a great war.

These measures will not be easy to take, involving as they must, if the Germans are to support them, an agreement with the German nation as to its place in Europe and its mission in the world. This will be harder to do than it will be to rearm Western Europe, and it will require a higher form of statesmanship than the armament program itself. But it is an understatement to say that it is at least as important.

Gen. Tsvetaev Is Dead; Chief of Soviet Academy

Moscow, Aug. 13 (AP).—Col. Gen. Vyacheslav Tsvetaev, 57, chief of Russia's leading military educational institution, died here Friday after a lengthy illness, it was announced today. He was head of the Frunze Military Academy in Moscow throughout the war.

Tsvetaev had served in the Soviet army since 1918. He was appointed to teach in the Frunze Academy in 1930. His obituary notice appearing in the newspapers here was signed by leading Soviet military men.

demands price and wage controls on any extensive basis.

The general hell that these controls play on the normal, productive forces in the economy, it is felt, more than offsets what advantages there would be.

It goes without saying that this conclusion is applicable to a situation in which we are not engaged in, or arming for, general world war. In the latter event, obviously wage and price controls would have to be put into effect as soon as they could be constructed.

Here is a consensus of some expert economists' views on the current situation and future prospects:

Living Costs Rise 1%

The rise in the cost of living since the Korean conflict is probably much smaller than most people think. The Bureau of Labor Statistics' index of consumer prices, showing the change between June 15 and July 15, is expected to reveal a rise of only about 1 percent.

Startling as this may be, it is explained by the fact that only a few items in the index increased. Those are the ones the shopper remembers and is impressed by.

In the past two weeks "scare buying" seems to have fallen off considerably. Ample supplies of most of the things consumers went after served as the best possible cure for fright.

The scare buying, according to one of the largest and statistically best informed department store chains, was concentrated almost entirely on a few items. In the "soft goods" lines, it was sheets and nylon hosiery. Except for temporary and local scarcities, these are in abundant supply. In "hard goods," it was television sets, refrigerators and deep freezes.

Additionally, there was eager buying of autos, tires, a few more household appliances like ranges and washing machines, and, of course, food.

As was noted in a previous article, there are no signs of food shortages. The expectation is for record-breaking plenty.

There will be, however, curtailment in the hard goods lines—cars and household appliances. Production will be cut back, under the limitation authority requested by the President. But there will be no such drastic reductions or even total elimination of them as there were in the last war.

Motor vehicle production is now running at the annual rate of 10 million trucks and passenger cars Any cutback in sight would still leave production of amounts equal to the best past years on record.

The higher prices we can expect in the future, the economists believe, will not be produced by consumers' panic buying either in fear of those higher prices or in anticipation of shortages.

Rather, it will be a kind of creeping rise, starting with raw material increases and higher labor costs and continuing slowly up through the economic system.

That is a basic sort of process, to be met and kept within bounds by basic measures aimed at reducing buying power. It doesn't help much to try to sit on and suppress each of the millions of final manifestations in the form of higher retail prices.

GOP Assails Failure of U. S. Policies

"our historic pioneering in the evolution of democracy."

From the Yalta and Potsdam conferences, because of this failure, they said, came the weakening of the United Nations. Also thence came Communist expansion in Europe and Asia from a 1939 empire of 180 million people in 1939 to 750 million at present.

From the 1945 "blindness" also has come "the unfolding disaster in the Far East," they wrote, with all of these things "accentuated by subsequent Administration policy."

The statement indicts the partition of Germany to the advantage of the Soviet, and failure to keep United States and friendly armed forces at proper strength.

A New View

In 1947 "came a new view," but only insofar as Europe was concerned, and strong bipartisan leadership was developed. This resulted in such programs in 1947 and 1948 as Greek and Turkish assistance, the Marshall Plan, the Rio Pact, and, last year, the North Atlantic Treaty, the statement said.

"Subtle betrayals" of China at the Yalta conference were part of the "price we paid for the unnecessary token participation" of Russia in the war against Japan, the Senators declared.

"Our Far Eastern policy, growing out of these events," they declared, "consistently temporized with and capitulated to the ruthless demands of the Communists, dominated by Moscow. Under it the Kremlin was, in effect, given a green light to grab whatever it could in China, Korea and Formosa. This was never a bipartisan policy. It was solely an Administration policy."

A Future Course

As to the future, the Senators declared that rebuilding of military strength and liberation of Korea will not be enough.

"We shall not sleep peacefully at night," they warned, "until our Government's policy is based on the full realization that world dominion by communism is still the goal of the Kremlin."

Regaining of the initiative for peace means first the ending of "the present intolerable military weakness of the free world," they said.

The Republican Senators pledged their "unpartisan cooperation" for final victory, but warned:

"In this crisis there can be no 'politics as usual' nor 'business as usual' . . . we must not wait until the present crisis is over and then fumble the ball of international peace because we are not prepared for victory. For the attainment of such aims we will hold the Administration strictly responsible."

ing) a challenge for investing money."

Speaking on the same program, which was broadcast as the regular weekly Chicago Roundtable forum, Dr. Wilma Donahue, clinical psychologist of Ann Arbor, Mich., urged that everyone begin immediately to prepare for old age.

"We can't wait till our children are grown and our jobs are gone," she declared.

Another participant, Dr. Edwin E. Witte, economist of Madison, Wisc., declared that today's trend to earlier, compulsory retirement must be reversed. He emphasized that one of the greatest needs of the aged is financial security.

"Today," said Dr. Witte, "one third of all persons in United States more than 65 years old have no cash income of their own, and three fourths have less than $1000 annual cash income."

At another conference session, transcribed for broadcast over Radio Station WTOP last night, Dr. Edward J. Stieglitz, gerontologist of this city and New York, said today's plight of the aged can be blamed, at least in part, on the old folks themselves.

Asked what society should do for the aged, Dr. Stieglitz replied: "I don't think society owes any one group anything. Everything must be earned."

He debunked what he called the "too prevailing concept" that age makes a person conservative.

"In the normal person, this is no more so than saying the leopard changes his spots when he gets older," Dr. Stieglitz said. "The conservative does get more conservative with aging, but the radicals and liberals also get more radical and more liberal as they age."

Stieglitz, who also advocated individual preparation for old age, noted that it is as wise for an adult to prepare for old age as it is wise for a child to prepare himself to become an adult.

The financial dilemma of old age was outlined by Ewan Clague, economist and commissioner of labor statistics for the United States Department of Labor. Clague, of 3821 Woodley rd. nw., said the "realistic" solution probably lies between two present movements.

"One way some are trying to solve the problem," Clague said, 'is to provide an income so the old need not work. The other way is to provide them an opportunity to work to earn their own income."

The delegates were welcomed at the conference opening by Oscar R. Ewing, Federal Security Agency administrator, whose office called the conference at President Truman's request. America, he said, should stop accenting youth when that accent is at the expense of its older citizens.

"This is a country where it's wonderful to be young," Ewing declared. "It must become a country where it is also wonderful to be old.

"Too often we have forgotten that older people deserve the respect which their maturity calls for: not simply the respect of the Boy Scout leading the old lady across the avenue, but the deep respect of society for the human being who wishes to preserve his dignity, his self-confidence, his independence, and his capacity to enjoy life—and to contribute to the total life of the community."

chromosomes (heritable cells); the American upland, 26 pairs.

A genetic technique discovered in 1937 held the answer. This was the use of colchicine, a poisonous drug made from the wild crocus, to double the number of chromosomes. Beasley tried this on cotton.

One result of Beasley's research was to show that American upland cotton is probably a natural hybrid that occurred hundreds of years ago. With colchicine, he finally obtained wild plants that could be hybridized with the upland, and the first triple hybrids resulted.

Nearly all the hybrids were sterile. It took thousands of selections and back-crosses to get the fertile plants now used in experiments. At present the hybrids yield about the same as American-Egyptian (long staple) varieties, or about half less than the upland.

One ARA paper on the subject quotes two geneticists who worked on the project, Harold D. Loden of the University of Georgia and T. R. Richmond, Agriculture Department employe at the University of Texas as "optimistic that some day hybrid vigor will give the cotton grower the same sort of help it is now giving to the corn farmer."

"Spinning tests," ARA states, "showed a yarn strength 50 percent above the average for staple length. For example, 1-1/6-inch cotton from one of these new hybrids is equal to or somewhat above standard 1½-inch cottons of the American-Egyptian type."

SING BACKACHE BLUES AWAY

Thousands once blue and depressed felt like singing when they discovered how quickly wonder-soothing CYSTEX usually relieves Backache, Strong Cloudy Urine, Frequent, Burning Passages, Getting Up Nights, Leg Pains, Swollen Ankles, Circles Under Eyes, Nervousness, and Rheumatic Pains, due to non-organic and non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles. CYSTEX works in acid conditions by helping nature clear away certain irritating non-specific germs which often cause much trouble. Then nature has a chance to rebuild your natural vitality and make you want to sing with the joy of living. Don't wait and let dreary days and wretched nights make you sorry. Get CYSTEX from your druggist today, and see how quickly you may feel like singing with the joy of living.

D. C. Boy Loses in Derby

Akron, Ohio, Aug. 13 (Spl.).—Harold D. Williamson, 15, Charleston, W. Va., bested 147 youthful speedsters in winning the thirteenth annual All-American Soap Box Derby Championship here today.

Davis Wrinkle, entry from Washington, D. C., bowed out in the quarter-finals, after surviving two heats. The 13-year-old Capitalite outdistanced racers from Beloit, Wis., St. Catherine's, Ont., Harrisburg, Pa., and Wichita, Kans., before meeting defeat.

His speedy, two-toned green car finally succumbed in the third round to entries from Kansas City, Mo., and Roanoke, Va. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noble D. Wrinkle of 4815 N. 16th st., Arlington, were among more than 50,000 spectators who witnessed the 2½ hours of racing. Wrinkle is a Rural Electrification Administration employe.

Taking second place was Donald Alter of Williamsport, Pa., while Richard Dougan of Muncie, Ind., was third.

Harold Switzer of Hagerstown, Md., was also eliminated in the quarter-finals. His racer defeated cars from Juneau, Alaska; White Plains, N. Y.; St. Petersburg, Fla., and Niagara Falls, N. Y., before losing out to entries from Elwood City, Pa., and Mount Holly, N. J.

"Very Little" Progress Seen in Rail Dispute

"A very little progress" was reported yesterday in White House efforts to bring about a settlement between the Nation's top railroads and two unions in their dispute over a 40-hour week.

Talks will be resumed today. The two organizations could paralyze the major rail lines if they strike.

'Tap' at Office Of Brewster's Foe Revealed

tated a statement in front of Fulton, setting forth his position in regard to the investigation.

Brewster said that on April 16 of that year Fulton sent notice he had become a counsel for Hughes. Brewster said this fact and a memorandum in the case indicated "the trap they were trying to lay for me."

Three days after Brewster's testimony, Fulton called a press conference to accuse Brewster of "repeating deliberate falsehoods" in charging that he, Fulton, tried to have the Hughes investigation soft-pedaled. Hughes later testified he paid Fulton $10,000 for his services.

When Pepper himself a member of the old Brewster Committee made public the testimony on the Occidental Hotel wire tapping, he also announced testimony was received last week on tapping at the Mayflower Hotel. But he identified only the Mayflower tap as connected with the Hughes case. Pepper said both jobs, as well as a third tap in an apartment house in the 2500 block of Q st. nw., were done in 1947. He did not give an exact date.

Back of the Hughes inquiry was a battle over a proposed merger of two giant airlines TWA, then controlled by Hughes, and Pan American.

Hughes' Statement Denied

Hughes took the stand in the 1947 investigation, conducted by a subcommittee headed by Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) He swore Brewster told him at a Mayflower Hotel luncheon "that if I would agree to merge TWA with Pan American and would go along with his community airline bill, there would be no further investigation of my company."

Brewster denied the conversation took place.

The Hughes case has come up again because of the alleged wiretapping activities of Police Lieut. Joseph W. Shimon. Pepper said last week that two police witnesses told his committee they had done wire tapping with and for Shimon.

Brewster has said he paid Shimon $100 or so for his expenses in connection with getting rid of a mysterious man who, Brewster said, shadowed him at the time of the Hughes inquiry in 1947. But the Senator denied he ordered or paid Shimon the $100 or any other money for wire tapping.

The committee today is to hear three witnesses: United States District Attorney George Morris Fay, for whom Shimon worked for a time; Joseph Tait, head of United States Recording Co. which allegedly supplied equipment to Shimon; and Detective James Bryant, who, it has been testified, at one time collaborated with Shimon.

Full War Controls Urged Now

the President virtually a free hand to invoke wage-price controls and rationing.

The House already has passed a similar bill including those powers—which Mr. Truman did not seek—and others which he did.

Senate passage is being taken for granted by Administration leaders. The President has said he did not ask for wage-price-rationing authority because he felt to do so would stir up a controversy in Congress which would delay action on the controls he wants quickly.

Those include allocation of scarce industrial materials, defense contract priorities, and credit controls.

Mr. Truman also has said he would be glad to have authority to impose wage, price and rationing curbs—if Congress tied no restrictive strings to use of them. The President's position is that the time for using them has not arrived.

Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.) also called on Mr. Truman to give the people the full story regarding the scope of mobilization planned.

No Food Rationing In Sight, Aides Say

President Truman has no present plans to impose price and rationing controls on food even if Congress arms him with such authority, Agriculture Department officials said yesterday.

While conceding the picture would change immediately if the Korean fighting spilled over into World War III, they said this year's bumper harvest plus big stocks of corn and wheat already on hand should meet all foreseeable needs.

In addition, they said, imposing price controls now would defeat their own purpose because most food prices at the farmer's gate already are below the level permitted under the legislation before Congress. Meat is the only major exception.

A's Defeat Yanks, 5-2, On Lehner's 3 Run Homer

New York, Aug. 13 (AP).—Paul Lehner blasted a three-run homer in the seventh inning today to drive home what proved to be the winning runs as the Philadelphia Athletics humbled the New York Yankees, 5-2.

Lanky Lou Brissie stopped the Yanks on four hits for his seventh victory.

Brissie, winning his fifth straight, held the home team to one earned run. Lehner banged four hits, making 11 for the four-game series.

Brissie allowed the unearned score in the second, making the error himself, but had a no-hitter until the sixth when Hank Bauer, who made two of the four Yankee hits, singled.

The losing pitcher was Vic Raschi, who has made the A's his special dish through the years, The Macks had lost 14 out of 15 to him before today.

Raschi was clubbed for eight hits before leaving for a pinchhitter in the seventh inning.

He gave up two runs in the fourth inning when Kermit Wahl doubled to left center with a pair of runners on the bases. Singles by Brissie, who made two, and Ed Joost preceded Lehner's drive into the lower right field stands in the seventh. It was Paul's second homer of the series, the first one having clinched Thursday's 5-3 win.

Two of Furgol's Shots Get Into People's Pockets

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP).—Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., got in Promoter George S. May's pocket for $100 on a side bet today—and also got in a pocket on a tee shot.

On the 250-yard eighth hole in the Tam O'Shanter men's pro golf tourney, Furgol's drive bounced into the pocket of a sport's jacket worn by a 17-year-old youth. Officials ruled the ball could be removed and dropped over the spectator's shoulder without penalty.

On the last hole, Furgol holed a 28-foot putt for birdie 3 at 100-to-1 odds from May.

Furgol closed with 72 for 287 to finish in the money for the tournament.

Hey! Who's on First?

This was the picture yesterday in the sixth inning at Griffith Stadium as Boston Outfielder Billy Goodman lays down a bunt moving Third Baseman Johnny Pesky to second. With First Baseman Sam Mele, Pitcher Al Sima and Catcher Mickey Grasso all scrambling after the ball there seems to be a decided lack of protection at first, but Second Baseman Cass Michaels (not shown) somehow managed to sprint over to first in time to take Mele's throw for the out. By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

Cal Hubbard Calls Noren Out at Plate Then 'Safe'

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The Nats scored their wackiest victory in many a year as they stood off an eighth-inning Boston rally to nose out the Red Sox, 6-5, yesterday at Griffith Stadium.

Al Sima, who pitched the first 7 2/3 innings for Washington, was credited with a well-deserved triumph, his second against two losses. Mickey Harris worked the rest of the game as the Nats took the series, 3 to 2.

In 2 hours and 10 minutes, the Sunday crowd of 11,271 was treated to some of the screwiest baseball on record.

1. They saw Bob Ortiz crack a double to left in the first inning, and then unwittingly "steal" first base.

2. They saw Cal Hubbard, usually one of the stubbornest umpires in baseball, admit he was wrong and reverse a decision.

3. They watched Johnny Pesky hit into a double play without being involved in any of the outs himself.

4. And finally they saw Boston Leftfielder Billy Goodman streak after a fly ball by Irv Noren in the third inning, fall to his hands and knees, and then get up to catch the ball.

The "steal" by Oritz and Hubbard's unusual display of fickleness occurred practically simultaneously in the first inning and were the key to Washington's first two runs off Starter Mickey McDermott.

Eddie Yost doubled and Irv Noren singled with one out in that first inning. With two out, Oritz rifled a liner over shortstop to score Yost.

Ortiz rounded first and tried for a double. He beat Centerfielder Dom DiMaggio's throw to Second Baseman Bobby Doerr. Meanwhile, Noren was trying to score. Doerr pivoted and pegged to Catcher Birdie Tebbetts in time for the putout.

Umpire Hubbard, standing behind Tebbetts, signaled that Noren was out to retire the side, and Oritz started to walk to Washington's dugout.

However, Third Base Umpire Bill McKinley had seen Tebbetts drop the throw and he signaled to Hubbard, who reversed his decision.

Red Sox players were off the

Steelers Whip Colts On Geri's Field Goal

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Aug. 13—After a dazzling running exhibition by Bobby Gage, a last-minute field goal from the 8-yard line by Joe Geri gave the Pittsburgh Steelers a 30-27 decision over the Baltimore Colts here today in a wide-open National Football League exhibition.

Gage, pro soph who used to cavort for Clemson, set up the winning score by taking a pass from Geri to the Colts' one for a 33-yard gain.

Not taking any chances on time running out, Geri fell back for his short field goal. As it turned out, there was time for two more plays.

That three pointer by Geri offset a 25-yard boot by the veteran Rex Grossman when Baltimore played for a tie in the last four minutes.

That pass reception was the least of Gage's efforts. A rabid Colt crowd estimated at 19,000 (although 23,000 tickets were sold at $5 per copy) groaned when the 175-pounder took the second-half kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown.

Colts Blow 17-0 Lead

Minutes later, he grabbed a Colt punt on his 22 and sprinted 78 yards for another score.

It was Gage who lifted the Steelers back into the ball game after the Colts had spurted to a 17-0 lead and still enjoyed a comfortable 17-7 edge at half.

The Baltimore refugees from the defunct All-America conference weren't awed by the veteran Steelers. Midway in the first period, George Buksar, rookie from Purdue, intercepted a pass by Geri on the Pitt 47 and went all the way.

Early in the second period the Colts put on a 77-yard sustained march with Y. A. Title throwing a 17-yard strike to End John North in the end zone. North made a spectacular over-the-shoulder catch.

When Rex Grossman followed with a 12-yard field goal the shirt-sleeved Baltimoreans sitting in unfinished Memorial Stadium were all smiles.

They'd still be smiling if it weren't for Bobby Gage.

Gene's Touchdown Vital

Before the first half ended, Pittsburgh finally got moving and Fran Rogell plunged for its first score.

Then, after intermission, Gage went into action. Quarterback Charley Seabright took the kickoff on his 10 and then lateraled to Gage, who was going full blast on his 20. Gage never stopped and had outdistanced all the Colts by the time he hit midfield.

After Billy Stone fumbled and Carl Samuelson recovered on the Colts' 19, Baltimore fought off the threat to its 17-13 lead and took over.

Rookie Buksar, who was brilliant on pass defense, boomed a 57-yard

Aussies Whip Sweden, 3 to 2

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Frank Sedgman gave Australia the right to meet the United States for tennis' Davis Cup today when his clutch 6—4, 7—5, 6—3 victory over Torsten Johansson handed the Aussies a 3-2 triumph over Sweden in the interzone finals.

Earlier today, the Swedes had rallied to tie the important tennis series at 2-2 when Swedish Champion Lennart Bergelin upset Aussie veteran Jack Bromwich, 6—3, 6—2, 1—6, 7—9, 6—3.

This presented the underdog Swedes with a chance for one of the greatest upsets in Davis Cup history, but Johansson simply was no match for the aggressive, hard-hitting Sedgman in the final and deciding match of the best-of-five series.

The Aussies had advanced to the interzone finals by winning the American zone eliminations while the Swedes had won the European zone trials.

Now Australia will meet the United States, present holder of the cup and thus exempt from qualifying play, in the "challenge" round at Forest Hills, N. Y., August 25-26-27.

Wolfe Favored In Jaycee Golf

Ames, Iowa, Aug. 13.—Billy Wolfe, the Washington Post schoolboy golf champion, finds himself the favorite to win the Junior Chamber of Commerce junior golf tournament being held here this week.

None of the youngsters who reached the quarter-finals last year are back, and Wolfe has been installed as the favorite. He reached the semifinals of the U. S. G. A. Junior Tournament this summer, losing to Mason Rudolph, the champion, by a close 2-and-1 score. Rudolph is not entered here.

Tournament play starts tomorrow. Four other Washington junior golfers will compete, Dennis Bolster, Middle Atlantic junior champ; Joe O'Brien, Georgetown Prep; Bill Ball, Western High, and Kay Fletcher, Roosevelt High.

The tournament is being held on the Iowa State College golf course, famed for its deceptive traps and difficult natural hazards.

Dodgers Get 3 in 7th, Beat Braves, 8-2

Boston, Aug. -13 (AP)—Landing on starter Bob Chipman for three runs in the seventh inning to break a 1-1 tie, the Brooklyn Dogers went on to an 8-2 decision over the Boston Braves today, squaring the series at two victories each.

The paid throng of 26,501 was the largest day crowd of the season at Braves Field.

Erv Palica, bridgegroom of a week, went all the way to register his first victory over Boston. His season's mark now is 5-4.

The loss was charged to Chipman who was racked for nine of the dozen hits banged by the Dogers.

Edwards Wins Rifle Shoot With 399x400

Firing a 399x400 on 40 shots from 50 meters, Ralph Edwards of the Terrapin Rifle Club won the seventh match of the Maryland Rifle League summer series at the Greenbelt Gun Club range yesterday.

Victor Patterson of the 933 Rifle Club nosed out Charles Patterson of the National Capital Rifle Club for the runnerup position, 395 to 394.

Greenbelt, which captured the team title by posting a 1569x1600 to edge the National Capital's 1566, also produced three individual champions.

Mrs. Ruth Morgan led the women with a 393, Dr. Robert Sillery the marksmen with 392, and Jack Raitala the sharpshooters with 391.

Chisox, Tribe Split; Indians Badger Umpire

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians split a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox, losing the second game 7-5 after scoring a 5-2 triumph in the opener before a crowd of 37,940 persons today.

Cleveland players stormed around Umpire Jim Boyer after the last out of the second game, protesting his call at first base to complete a game-ending double play on Luke Easter's roller.

Ray Scarborough, although removed before he could register a putout in the sixth inning, gained his tenth win in the second game.

Giants Top Phils, 2-0, On Westrum's Hit

Philadelphia, Aug. 13 (AP).—Catcher Wes Westrum's lazy infield hit with the bases loaded in the fifth inning today broke up a duel between Pitchers Jim Hearn and Ken Johnson as the red hot New York Giants shut out the league-leading Philadelphia Phils 2 to 0 before 19,644.

It was Hearn's fourth victory in six decisions. He held the Phils to four hits. Ken Johnson dropped his first game in five decisions.

Eddie Stanky's triple in the ninth, followed by a shoestring single by Ray Mueller gave the Giants their other run.

The two teams divided a four-game series.

In losing, Philadelphia held its league lead of five games as Brooklyn stopped second-place Boston 8-2.

In comparison to yesterday's jamboree which saw more than 40 players battling on the field after a clash at second base, today's game was quiet and politely played.

It was a duel between two former St. Louis Card pitchers. Hearn scored the first run. Johnson walked him with one out in the fifth. Stanky also walked. Whitey Lockman fouled to Andy Seminick but Don Mueller was safe on a fielder's choice. Mike Goliat forgot to step on the bag and everyone was safe. Then came Westrum's slow roller.

Jack Lohrke played third base for the Giants in place of Henry Thompson, who was injured yesterday.

Seminick and Giant infielder Bill Rigney drew $25 fines for starting a fight yesterday after Seminick slid into second in the fourth inning.

It's Official

Marshall Says Justice Out

Los Angeles, Aug. 13.—It's official now—Charlie Justiec will not play for the Washington Redskins this year.

Justice himself has said it twice, and today George Preston Marshall, president of the Redskins, got around to confirming it.

"He's a dead duck as far as we are concerned," Marshall volunteered. "I understand he'll play with that bush league outfit, the Richmond Rebels. I'm sory for Justice."

Marshall need not feel too sorry for the Carolina All-American, however. He'll get in the neighborhood of $15,000 for six home games with the "bush leaguers" and will still keep his $6000 job with the North Carolina Medical Foundation.

The 'Skins held a brief defensive session today. Tomorrow they'll prep under the lights of their Occidental College practice field and on Tuesday they shift over to Coliseum for a night's practice, their final before the exhibition season opener against the Rams Wednesday.

Mrs. MacCool, Robison Win Putt Contest

By Dave Heller
Post Reporter

More than 250 golfers competed in the putting contest at East Potomac public golf course yesterday and Saturday. It is believed to be the largest such event ever held in this area.

Mrs. Hazel MacCool with 42 putts for 18 greens ranging from 30 to 70 feet, won the women's contest, and Hank Robison with 36 for the same course, was low among the men.

Former Senator James Meade of New York, now a member of the Federal Trade Commission, was on hand to pass out trophies, golf equipment, and other prizes to the winners last night.

Other winners:

Men's Division
M. E. Herndon was second with 38 putts; Keith Kallio, Ernie Garlem and Julien Williams tied for third with 39; Homer Fuller, Tommy Thompson, Jack Sayers, Bill Sayers, Bob Martino, Frank Battista, Milt Logan and George Pigott tied for sixth with 40 each.
Women's Division
Miss Helen Fairchild was second with 45.

FAIRFAX COURTHOUSE: Fred Everly, 102-30-72, won the 18-hole medal handicap tournament. Art Sharp and Floyd Wood tied for second with net 76s. Mrs. I. Rutkoski, 102-28-74, won the ladies' 18-hole medal tournament. Mrs. Floyd Wood and Mrs. Al Sharp tied for second with net 80s.

WOODMONT: Woodmont lost an inter-city golf match to woodholme Country Club of Baltimore 19½-18½. Clair Emery and Congressmen Sidney Yates of Illinois, playing the top positions for Woodmont, were tops with a best ball 72.

WASHINGTON: Mrs. P. E. Barefoot and R. H. Rife won the mixed Scotch foursome with 87—14—73. A. G. Simmonds and J. A. Jones and Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Ferry tied for second with net 75s. Mrs. G. H. Bailey and H. K. Webb won low gross with 84.

D. L. Eggers and Lou Swarthout tied for first in the Class A division of the 18-hole medal handicap tournament with net 67s. E. C. Wood won Class B with 99—33—66.

ARGYLE: Lydia Howard and Herb Batson took low gross in the mixed Scotch foursome with 77. Lucille Bush and Bud Clark took second low gross with 78. Jean Turner and Kurt Turner won first low net with 82—17—65. Betty Nolan and Chuck Hackett, Marie Thomas and John Andestad and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hallowell tied for second with net 66s.

KENWOOD: Maury Fitzgerald and Mrs. W. R. Sewell, 80—15—65, and George Freeman and Mrs. Joseph Hopkinson, 80—15—65, tied for first place in the Dr. Noah Pomeroy Trophy play. C. M. Hammersla and Mrs. Joe Kerr were third with 81—15—66.

BELLE HAVEN: Major N. P. Hays, 77—10—67, won the United Clay Products Trophy. In the match play against par, Frank Heyer and Ralph Kneeland won 9 up. Joe Ashcroft and B. Frankl were second, 6 up.

MANOR: W. I. Hicks and E. W. Lawson won the two-man team championship, defeating Sam Andrews and C. E. O'Daniels, 2 up.

ROCK CREEK: Gretchen Huff and Norman Brown, 75—6—69, won a playoff from Jo DiBella and Jim Null and Margaret Cantwell and Bill Nicholson in the mixed Scotch foursome play after all had finished with net 69s.

BETHESDA: Results of first round match play for the President's Cup:

Willis Hurd beat Ralph Vanderworker, 2 up; R. B. Oxrider beat Clair Lacey, 3 and 2; Tom Manning beat Sam Mullendore, 2 and 1; Art Rabuck beat Fran Donaldson, 4 and 3; Jack Ferguson beat Dick Goodridge, 1 up; Strerm Burt beat M. M. Smith, 3 and 2; Bill Strieter beat Ken Brown, 1 up; George Hopkins beat Joe Siegmiller, 8 and 6; Al Mattern beat Lieut. A. Rueffel, 2 up; Harry Arenz beat Joe Giamatteo, 2 up; Joe LaSalle beat Dave Reasoner, 4 and 3; Tony Popolaski beat Dr. William Billingsley, 1 up; George Lesser beat Bernie Hull, 1 up.

ARMY NAVY: Mrs. Clark Ruffner and her son Ernie, and Commander and Mrs. J. J. Obermyer tied for first place in the mixed Scotch foursome with net 68s. Col. and Mrs. Nelson LeClair were third with a net 68. Lieut. Col. and Mrs. W. J. Ely took low gross with 83.

FAIRFAX: Charley Johnson, 3901 North Fifth st., Arlington had a hole-in-one on the 142 yard seventh hole. He used a eight iron for the shot. He was playing in a threesome with Robert L. Mason and F. G. Welch. Johnson had a 75 for the par 71 eighteen holes. He went out in even par, but took a seven on the thirteenth.

Fred Prouelx shot one of the best rounds of the summer, carding a one-under-par 38, 36—70.

PRINCE GEORGES—W. C. Oats, 38, 15—73, and Congressman Earl Wilson of Indiana, 38, 35—73, led qualifiers for the club championship. Mike Jankowski, 37, 37—74, was third. Qualifying continues for another week.

INDIAN SPRING—Eddie Ault set an amateur course record, shooting a three-below-par 66 in defeating Dr. William Wolfe, 5 and 4 in second round match play of the club championship tournament.

Ault had four birdies on the outgoing round to card a four-below 31, but bogied the thirteenth and played par golf for the remaining holes to post a one-over 35 returning.

Scores in other second-round matches:

Bill McFerren beat Denny Heavener, 4 and 3; Bud Sharkey beat Dick Schattman, 3 and 1; Jim Hunt beat Frank Kretzman, 6 and 5; Doug Jackson beat Jack Undercuff, 7 and 5; Morris Abrams beat Lou Jacobs, 2 and 1.

Stranahan, Zaharias Win Crowns

By Jerry Liska

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP).—Golf's richest meeting, the $49,000 "world" championship pro tourney, today wound up in a tie between Henry Ransom and fast-finishing Chick Harbert, who deadlocked at seven-under-par 281 for the $11,000 top prize.

Promoter George S. May announced an 18-hole playoff will be held at Tam O'Shanter course tomorrow (3 p. m. Washington time).

Fabulous Babe Zaharias won the "world" women's pro championship and a $2,000 prize with a closing 34-37—71 for a 72-hole total of 293.

Stranahan Top Amateur

Frank Stranahan of Toledo took the amateur title with a closing 37—36—73 for a 289 aggregate—one over par.

Young Gardner Dickinson of Dothan, Ala., former Louisiana State University star, finished fast with a 34—40—74 and 292 for second place.

Ransom, 39-year-old former Texan now playing from St. Andrews, Ill., was a tourney leader in the pro men's division until the seventieth hole and wound up with a last-day 71.

Hard-hitting Harbert, 35, from Northville, Mich., turned on the pressure for a windup 68. He finished dramatically in the day's last twosome before a swarming crowd estimated at 20,000.

Harper, Hefner Tie for Third

Second prize in the tourney is $5000, which goes to the loser of tomorrow's playoff.

Sharing third place and pocketing $2600 each were Clayton Heafner, the husky shooter from Charlotte, N. C., and Chandler Harper, 1950 National PGA champion, whose closing 69 and 70 respectively, gave them 283 each.

Dot Kielty, Long Beach, Calif., veteran, won the "world" women's amateur crown with a windup 39-40—79 for 315-11 over par. Second was Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., with a final 79 for 317. She finished one stroke ahead of Mae Murray, Rutland, Vt., who fired an even par 76 for 318.

Mr. O'Neill, Your Signals are Showing! It's Boston's Biggest Theft Since Brink's

By Jules Loh and Bill Gilbert

WE STOLE signals at the Nats-Bosox game yesterday. It's easy.

Armed with a pair of high-powered binoculars, we took our position in dead center field in Griffith Stadium's bleachers, called pitches, and Steve O'Neill didn't see us.

Bosox Manager O'Neill, you probably recall, two weeks ago accused Cleveland of placing a man in a position similar to ours, to swipe the Boston catcher's signals, and relay them to the Cleveland batters.

Lou Boudreau made the same accusation when Cleveland played in Boston last week, and O'Neill said, quote: "Let him prove it." Unquote. Neither one of them proved it.

Yesterday O'Neill had his chance to hang the charge on the Nats simply by dispatching a couple of Bosockers like Walt Dropo and Vern Stephens to the center field bleachers, have them grab our notebook which contained "proof positive, and then destroy us. Which is what we were afraid of.

Of course we were not relaying the signals to the batters. Our purpose was merely to see if it could be done. It most certainly can.

We were calling nearly every pitch and expecting at any instant to be hit on the head by a Louisville Slugger or some such weapon. But nobody so much as questioned us.

SIGN STEALERS BILL GILBERT AND JULES LOH
... It proves easy from bleacher vantage point

It would be rather difficult to advise the batter of the pitch after we determined it, because by our calculations we discovered that the average time between the moment the pitcher receives the signal and delivers the pitch is 11.3 seconds. It took us just about that long to consult our notebook and determine the pitch.

You see, sometimes a catcher's signals can become a somewhat complex means of communication. Half the motions he makes mean nothing.

On the other hand sometimes he may merely extend two fingers and that's all, to signify that he expects the pitcher to throw a curve. If that's the case it's easy to steal it.

And sometimes he may extend two fingers, then three, then one, then four, in rapid succession. Maybe only the third one means anything, or the second and so forth.

Or he may scratch his thigh, which could mean a fast ball, or a drop, or that his leg itches.

Then again he may give no signal at all. Which is apparently what happened yesterday when Cass Michaels tripled to right center.

The simple signs we learned in the first inning. A couple of innings later we were reasonably sure of the more complex ones. By the fifth we had 'em all down pat.

Give us one more game's experience and we're ready for hire. We prefer a first-division club.

Interested, Mr. O'Neill?

D. C. Golf Stars Beat Virginia On Last Match

The Washington area All-Star golf team defeated the Virginia All-Stars, 13-11, yesterday at Manor Country Club with a last-match comeback.

Virginia led, 11-10, when the famed "Gold Dust twins," Ralph Bogart and Bobby Brownell, both of Chevy Chase, took all three points from Wynsol Spencer of Newport News and Dick Payne of Virginia Beach, to provide the winning margin.

Bogart's two-over-par medal score of 72 was the best of the day. Mike Jankowski of Prince Georges had a 73.

Jankowski and Kenwood's Charley Price had a best ball 66, matched only by Ben Janssen of Charlottesville and George Fulton of Roanoke.

Results:

DISTRICT 13, VIRGINIA 11

Ralph Bogart and Bob Brownell, both of Chevy Chase, won three points from Wynsol Spencer, James River C. C., Newport News, and Dick Payne, Pennsylvania C. C., Virginia Beach.

Claude Rippy, Washington, and Bob Morris, Prince Georges, lost to Ben Janssen, Farmington (Charlottesville), and George Fulton, Roanoke C. C., 3-0.

Mike Jankowski, Prince Georges, and Charley Price, Kenwood, won from J. B. Hall, Hermitage (Richmond), and Pat Janssen, Farmington, 2½-½.

Bill Griffin, Manor, and Ed Ault, Indian Spring, tied Connie Sellers, Boonsboro C. C., and Dave Ewell, Hermitage, 1½ each.

Karl Kellerman, Columbia, and Dick Mothershead, Argyle, lost to Jack Harris, C. C. of Virginia (Richmond), and Jim Watts, Boonsboro C. C., 2½-½.

Maury Nee, Columbia, and Bill Shea, Congressional, won from John S. Battle, jr., Farmington, and George Gosey, Boonsboro, 2½-½.

Tom Belshe, Burning Tree, and Frank Heyer, Belle Haven, beat Harry Easterly, C. C. of Virginia, and Harry Thompson, C. C. of Virginia, 2½-½.

Bud Brylawski, Woodmont, and Henry Rudd, Bethesda, lost to Frank Wooley, Belle Haven, and Bill Tomlinson, Hermitage, 2½-½.

Nats Win 'Wacky' One, 6-5, As Hubbard Reverses Decision

field preparing to bat, but were called back out amidst confusion and bickering.

Hubbard then ordered Ortiz to go back to first base instead of second because Bob had given up his double by walking back toward first when Noren was called out.

After everything quieted down, Ortiz was given a single instead of a double, and Tebbetts was charged with an error.

That weird double-play into which Pesky grounded without being out himself occurred in the third inning after Zarilla's homer. MacDermott was on second, and DiMaggio on first with one out. Pesky grounded to Mele, who forced DiMaggio at second. The relay back to first was too late to get Pesky, but McDermott was doubled at the plate trying to score from second.

The Red Sox got one run back in the third when Al Zarilla lifted his sixth homer over the right-field fence. And in the sixth, they tied it at 2-all on Johnny Pesky's single, a sacrifice, and Walt Dropo's single to center.

Washington finished off McDermott in the sixth with a four-run cluster.

With one out, Johnny Ostrowski and Sam Dente singled and Mickey Grasso was passed intentionally to load the bases. Sima fanned, but Yost delivered a two-run single to left. Cass Michaels brought in a third run with a hit to center, and Irv Noren accounted for No. 4 with a single to left.

Mel Parnell was called in from the bullpen to replace McDermott, and he fanned Sam Mele to end the rally.

Boston made its last gesture in the eighth by putting over three runs, and sending Sima to the showers.

DiMaggio bounced a double into the rightfield boxes, and with two out, Vern Stephens and Dropo singled for one run. Sima appeared to be out of trouble when Doerr rolled to Dente, but the Nats' shortstop fumbled and the bases were loaded.

When Zarilla beat out a "bleeder" down the first base line scoring the second run, Mickey Harris was summoned.

Tebbetts walloped Mickey's first offering for a single and one run, but pinch-hitter Matt Batts ended the threat by flying to left.

Harris got tough in the ninth and saved the win by retiring DiMaggio, Pesky and Goodman

IN SHORT—Today is an off-day for the Nats, and tomorrow they open a four-game series with the Yankees here, in the much publicized day-night doubleheader. Bucky Harris will serve the Yanks Gene Bearden (1-5) by day and Bob Kuzava (7-7) by night.

Lowly Bucs Take Two From Cubs

Pittsburgh, Aug. 13 (AP).—The cellar-dwelling Pirates made a kind of local history today when they swept a doubleheader, dumping Chicago's Cubs 7-4 and 2-0.

It was the first dual win for the Buccos since the early days of the season and marked one of the few occasions on which they have won two games in a row. An appreciative crowd of 18,162 saw Mel Queen pitch a five-hit shutout in the nightcap.

In the opener Pittsburgh erupted for six runs in the fifth inning and Ralph Kiner smacked out his thirty-second home run of the year and the 200th of his career in the sixth. Danny O'Connell,

Woman, 3 Men Win Boat Titles

By Happy Walker

Cambridge, Md., Aug. 13.—Three national champions were crowned and a fourth repeated as the Cambridge Yacht Club concluded its two-day annual regatta here today.

From the opening gun, a strong northwest wind whipped the Choptank River course into menacing white caps, forcing the drivers to hold their speedy craft to half-throttle throughout the day. This explains the poor showing in the winning speeds of all classes.

Heading the list of newly crowned champions is Edgar Thompson, Edgemere, Md., who swept his T. M. Special to a win in the C racing runabouts unopposed. Bob McAllister, Ventnor, N. J., youth, made a clean sweep of the 48-cubic-inch runabouts in his fast-stepping Yankee Boy.

Frank Foulke, Baltimore veteran, repeated his 1949 success by taking top honors in the D racing class. This at the expense of E. J. Pliescott, Cambridge, Md., and Ed Thompson, Secretary, Md., who were disqualified for cutting a buoy in the second heat.

For the first time in history, a woman's 48 cubic inch runabout championship event was staged with Ruby Scull of Ventnor, N. J., claiming the crown against a field of half dozen distaff drivers.

Frank Kocsis, Silver Spring newcomer, practically wrecked his new P.O.D. Dina K, after earning a fifth place in the first heat.

Bunker Hill Tops Ft. Stevens

Bunker Hill defeated Fort Stevens, 11-4, yesterday on the Ellipse in the semifinals of their American Legion Junior Baseball League playoffs.

The two teams, only survivors of the double elimination tournament, have each lost one game and meet at 5 p. m. today at Anacostia for the right to represent Washington in the regional tournament at Fairmont, W. Va., later this month.

6-3, 7-5, 6-4 Win Boosts Cup Hopes

Newport, R. I., Aug. 13 (AP).—Second-seeded Ted Schroeder won his first grass court tournament of the year by lacing Art Larsen, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4, in the Newport Invitation Tennis Tournament today.

Today's victory is the second Newport crown in four years for the La Crescenta, Calif., player. He defeated Bill Talbert in 1947.

Schroeder's victory boosted his stock for a Davis Cup singles berth. He is a prime candidate for the team but before today had lost several tourneys to players ranked well below him nationally.

Ted dispalyed his sharpest stroking of the meeting in outclassing left-handed Larsen with superior steadiness, ground stroking and volleying. He needed only 58 minutes to win.

A sprained ankle cost the title for the doubles team of Budge Patty of Los Angles and Schroeder. They led, 7—9, 6—4, 6—4, 4—4, against Tony Talbert of Cincinnati Talbert when Patty hurt his ankle. Patty was taken to Newport Hospital where X-rays were to be taken.

Margaret duPont Wins Essex Title

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont, 32, of Wilmington, Del., today won her third Essex County Club women's tennis tournament singles championship by outclassing 20-year-old Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, Calif., 6—3,6—0.

In doubles Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., and Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, scored a startling upset over Louise Brough and Mrs. duPont, 6—3, 6—1.

It marked the first time since 1943 that the eight-times United States champions and four-times Wimbledon champions had been beaten in straight sets.

Rockville Clinches Title

Rockville clinched the Montgomery County Baseball League championship by winning a double-header, 11-5 and 10-7, from Bethesda yesterday on the losers' diamond. Rockville has won 15 games and lost one with two games remaining.

Sixty hits were banged out in the day's action. Big hitter of the day was Ralph Cooper, who connected for two singles, a double and a triple to bat in seven runs in the second game. Reds Giegrich rapped out five hits in six trips for the victors.

In other league games, Colesville won a double-header, 6-5 and 9-1, from Frederick at Colesville and Silver Spring defeated Damascus, 8-0 and 18-10, at Silver Spring.

Mixed doubles, first round: Maj. and Mrs. Carter Good defeated Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Kerkering, 6—4, 6—1; Comdr. Sadd and Angela Roberts defeated Maj. and Mrs. Jesse Hill, 6—0, 6—1.

27-Event Swim Meet at Greenbelt

A 27-event swimming meet, sponsored by the Prince Georges County Recreation Department, will open at the Greenbelt Pool at 10 a. m. today. Several hundred children, representing 15 playgrounds, are expected to enter.

McLean, Ballston Win, Remain Tied for Lead

McLean and Ballston remained tied for the Old Dominion baseball league lead yesterday by winning makeup games from Forestville and Manasas respectively.

Bobby Mayberry pitched a two-hiteer for McLean in its 6-1 win over Forestville, while Bucky Reingruber clubbed two home runs, each with a man on, to lead Ballston to a 16—8 victory. The league leaders will clash this week, the winner meeting first-half champion Fall Church Garage for the title Sunday.

Cissell-Saxon Tops Bethesda

Cissel-Saxon Post defeated Bethesda, 8—4, in an American Legion Junior Southern Maryland Baseball League game yesterday at Bethesda. The victory gives Cissel-Saxon a 6—0 record in the second half.

Buddy Hinton, the losing pitcher, struck out 19, while Sonny Burke, the winning pitcher, fanned 18.

Two battles to win!

We must do everything humanly possible to win the war. But this means we now have not one job to do—but two. A military job and a civilian job.

The second job is the responsibility of every man, woman and child in America today. We have to fight the enemy's Sixth Column — inflation — here at home!

How do we do it?

1. We get firmly fixed in our minds that this is not a "living as usual" situation. We tighten our belts, give up certain things, make some sacrifices.
2. We buy only what we absolutely have to have—for immediate needs.
3. We support every effort to cut to the bone any Government expenditures for non-military purposes. We can't build planes, guns, tanks, ships, and at the same time "compete with ourselves" by asking for bridges, dams, roads and social benefits we just don't have to have right now.
4. We recognize the need for paying for every possible cent of our mounting expenses out of current income. The more we have to borrow now, the more we mortgage our future, the more we weaken the buying power of our dollars.

Let's be clear on one thing. There are two essentials to winning a war. One is victory in the field. The other is not to let ourselves be bled to death economically.

Protecting the buying power of the dollar is one of the most important jobs facing America today.

Steelers Whip Colts on Geri's Field Goal, 30-27; Gage Stars

punt to the Steelers' 22. That was the one Gage promptly carried all the way.

Baltimore regained the lead at 24-20 after Jerry Nuzum fumbled and Rorb Rich recovered and ran to Pittsburgh's 15. Tittle went over on a quarterback sneak.

Geri made the important touchdown, though, when he broke off tackle for a 26-yard scoring jaunt.

The Federal Diary
by Jerry Kluttz

W. Elmer Harber, Oklahoma Banker, Will Head Up RFC

The new chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. will be W. Elmer Harber, an Oklahoma banker. The President has nominated Harber for a 2-year term on RFC's board of directors.

Manly Fleischmann of Buffalo is slated to be general counsel of the proposed office of allocations and priorities in the Commerce Department. He was assistant general counsel of the War Production Board.

The Senate Post Office & Civil Service Committee approved the nomination of Jack Redding as an Assistant Postmaster General, but several members gave him a rough time with questions on his qualifications for the post during a closed committee session. Redding is a former publicity chief for the Democratic National Committee.

John Mee has been asked to stay on indefinitely at the White House. He had planned to return to Indiana University next month to resume the teaching of political science. He's staff director of the committee set up by the President to compile a roster of people in and out of Government who are qualified for top Federal jobs. The Korean war makes his job even more important.

STORY: On a recent CBS radio show a group of Government employes was being quizzed on the full names of Uncle Sam's alphabetical agencies. A young G-girl was asked for the full name of the FBI.

She acted as though she had never heard of the agency. She concluded that "F" stood for "Federal," and "B" for "Bureau," but she was unable to even think of a logical name for "I." As the announcer gave her the gong, she cried out: "I know; it must be Federal Bureau of Injustice."

SECURITY BILL: The Administration has given its blessing to a provision in the Senate-approved bill to permit employes fired as security risks by sensitve agencies to appeal to Civil Service and to be certified for routine jobs in other agencies if they are cleared. The appeal provision was originally opposed by the Administration.

NOTES: The House today is scheduled to take up the bill to direct the Postmaster General to call off his economy program. The measure is a cinch to pass, but approval of it has been blocked several times in the Senate . . . Vincent B. Phelan, a construction engineer, is retiring from the Bureau of Standards after 33 years of service . . . Louise M. Noble has been appointed chief of the field service of the Children's Bureau social services division.

EFFICIENCY RATINGS: The Civil Servce Commission has proposed several amendments to the House-approved bill to overhaul the efficiency rating system. Chairman Harry B. Mitchell wrote the Senate Civil Service Committee:

"We recommend that the word 'excellent' be changed to 'outstanding.' The present efficiency rating system prescribes the adjective rating 'excellent' as the highest of five adjective ratings. One serious criticism of the present uniform system is that an undue proportion of Federal employes customarily receives the 'excellent' rating.

"We believe that the intent of the House bill is to reserve the highest of the three ratings for employes who are in every respect outstanding in their performance, and that this highest rating should not be degenerated into an automatic rating for large groups of employes. By using the designation 'outstanding' instead of 'excellent,' the large number of present employes who have been rated 'excellent' would not feel that they should automatically be given the highest rating under the new system.

"We also recommend that the word 'excellent' be changed to 'satisfactory' in Section 7. This change would mean that employes with a 'satisfactory' rating would not be entitled to an appeal outside their agencies to an efficiency rating board of review. Such employes would, however, still be able to have their ratings reviewed within their own departments. The commission does not feel that a person should be in a position to ask an outside board to declare that his work is outstanding and deserving of special compensation."

The Senate committee okayed the changes.

Army Honors First District Casualty in Burial Today

Generals, Band To Take Part in Thomas Funeral at Fort Myer Chapel

Full military honors will be accorded today to Second Lieut. Howell G. Thomas, jr., first soldier from Washington killed in Korea and first Korean casualty to be buried in Arlington Cemetery.

Funeral services for the 24-year-old airborne infantryman will be at 1:30 p. m. at the Fort Myer (Va.) Chapel.

The flag-draped casket on a caisson will be drawn from the chapel to the grave site near the Lee Mansion by six black-draped horses, an Army sergeant leading them on a seventh horse, in the traditional military funeral procession.

Army Band to Play

The United States Army Band will play at the chapel services, lead the procession to the grave, and play at the close of the committal services.

High Army officers who will participate in the ceremonial funeral will include Maj. Gen. Thomas W. Herren, commanding general of the Military District of Washington, and Maj. Gen. Roy H. Parker, Army Chief of Chaplains.

Lieut. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, deputy Army chief of staff for administration, is expected to represent Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff.

Korea to Send Delegation

A delegation from the Embassy of the Republic of Korea also will attend the ceremony.

The Rev. R. Edward Dowdy, assistant pastor of the Thomas family's church, the First Baptist Church, and Lieut. Col. Robert M. Homiston, Fort Myer post chaplain, will conduct the services. Col. William B. Estes, chaplain of the Military District of Washington, also will attend.

Colonel Homiston will open the service at the chapel. The Rev. Mr. Dowdy will give the sermon and, at the graveside, lead the committal service. Colonel Homiston will conduct the military ceremonies at the grave.

School and service friends of Lieutenant Thomas will be honorary pallbearers. They will include Walter Wills, Thomas Pence and George Lee, who knew him at George Washington University; Stanley Hobbs, who received his commission with Lieutenant Thomas from the paratroop school at Fort Benning, Ga., Lloyd Hyde, who was with him in Air Cadet training, and Peter Ciccolella, all of Washington.

Many in Family to Attend

Family members who will attend are the lieutenant's father; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shumaker; two aunts, Mrs. J. A. McDougall of Wilmington and Mrs. E. L. Hines of Norfolk, John McDougall of Wilmington and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Magee of Richmond, cousins.

Troops of the Third "Old Guard" Infantry Regiment of Fort Myer will provide an honor guard, the active pallbearers and the platoon that will fire the final rifle salute after the casket is lowered into the grave.

Beauty and the Feast—Lunch Call After Hours of Posing . . .

By Jack Lartz—The Washington Post

Group to Map Drive to Speed Home Rule

Suffrage Conference's Goal Is 14 More House Signatures

The board of trustees of the Central Suffrage Conference, long-time District home-rule organization, will hold a special meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the All Souls' Church (Unitarian), 16th and Harvard sts. nw.

The principal item on the agenda of the newly elected board is the mapping of an intensive drive to obtain 14 more signatures to put the home-rule bill discharge petition over the top. At present, 204 of the needed 218 signatures necessary to bring the bill to the House floor have been placed on the petition.

The bill passed the Senate without a dissenting vote a year ago, but has been bottled up in the House District Committee for several months. President Truman has expressed strong support for the measure on several occasions.

Proponents of the measure believe completion of the discharge petition, therefore, will insure enactment.

Cardiac Camps Set to Open Wednesday

The Washington Heart Association's second camping season will begin Wednesday at 9 a. m., when 120 children with heart defects leave for a two-week encampment near Triangle, Va., about 40 miles from Washington.

The Association last year opened special camps for cardiac children—Camp Sunshine for white youngsters and Camp Wonderland for Negro children—who were selected by doctors and social workers from Children's Hospital and Gallinger Hospital Cardiac Clinics.

About 50 percent of those registered are having their first taste of camp life. The remainder attended camp last year. The association has appropriated $6000 from the funds raised this year for the camping program.

The association summer outings committee has planned a "slow-down" recreation program concentrating on nature study, pottery, wood-working, swimming, archery and other games, rather than highly competitive, active sports.

Bathing Beauties in Park Make Nature Lovers' Eyes Pop

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

Nearby residents who dropped over to the Sesquicentennial Amphitheater yesterday on a Sunday morning stroll were amazed—and obviously pleased—to see bathing beauties parading on the stage of the classic structure.

A pianist was giving out with a variety of tunes, from "You Do Something to Me," to the Bell Song from "Lakme."

A man with a straw boater kept calling out numbers, and as he did so, a new beauty in a differently colored and cut bathing suit would magically appear for the edification of the Sunday strollers, who stayed to gape.

Rehearsing for Finals

There were 11 beauties in all, and the unusual goings on in Rock Creek Park near 16th st. and Colorado ave. nw. turned out to be the rehearsal for the "Miss Washington" beauty-talent contest finals, scheduled for 8:30 tonight. A concert by the Boys Club of Washington band will precede the program at 7:30.

While there were 11 girls rehearsing yesterday, a 12th eye-catcher, Rosemarie Buzolits, 21, of 5011 Nebraska ave. nw., also will be on hand tonight. It seems yesterday she was in South Bend, Ind., gathering up a trousseau for her wedding to her Naval Reservist boy friend, who has been called to active duty.

Some of the girls, who will be judged tonight on the basis of four qualifications, were admittedly jittery. The winner of $5000 in prizes and the Miss Washington title will have to excel in beauty of face, beauty of figure, talent, and charm-personality.

Youngest was Patricia Sherzer, 18, of 1500 V st. se., who is hoping for the scholarship included in the prizes so she can study singing. She will sing "One Kiss" tonight in the talent part of the contest, and she hopes to crash musical comedy some day.

Other singers competing are Jeannine Booth, 19, of 261 Hawaii ave. ne.; Jeanni O'Neill, 19, of 3547 16th st. nw., who will appropriately sing "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and Sandra Stahl, 20, of 1633 16th st. nw., who prefers opera.

Four young women who will dance for the prize are Doris Erwin, 20, of 1216 B st. se., Letricia King, 21, of 1321 K st. nw., Lorraine De Boe, 23, of 1800 Branch ave. se. who will give her own tap dance routine and wear a costume she designed herself — and Janis North, 18-year-old classical ballet dancer of 2601 Calvert st. nw.

In Dramatic Scenes

The four others, who will act out dramatic scenes, are Miss Buzolits, Geneva Tomlin, 23, of 2500 Q st. nw., Shirley Talbott, 21, of 115 Rittenhouse st. nw. and Anita May Litoff 21, of 5413 4th st. nw.

The contest is sponsored by the Washington Junior Chamber of Commerce, and produced by Station WWDC. The man with the straw hat was Norman Reed, WWDC program director, and the pianist was Fred Wolston.

"Miss Washington" will compete for the Miss America title at Atlantic City September 4 to 9. Among the judges tonight will be Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark, Treasurer of the United States, Senator Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) and Representative John L. McMillan (D., S. C.), respectively chairmen of the Senate and House District committees.

County Board To Decide on Sewage Action

Referendum Proposed On Bond Issue for Treatment Plant

The Arlington County Board is scheduled to meet tonight in the Arlington Courthouse to discuss whether to hold a referendum on a proposed $2,617,000 bond issue to enlarge the county's sewage plant.

The present facilities can handle only a fraction of the county's many million gallons of sewage and the remainder is dumped into the Potomac at Four Mile Run, county officials have admitted.

The Virginia Water Control Board in June gave the Arlington officials until Tuesday to present a "definite proposal" for financing additional sewage treatment facilities. County Manager A. T. Lundberg will take the county board's decision to Richmond on Tuesday.

The water control board met in Richmond in June after complaints were made that the Potomac was approaching "cesspool conditions" in the Washington metropolitan area as a result of pollution. The District of Columbia particularly was "gravely concerned" about the steady deterioration of the sanitary conditions of the river.

Woman, 83, Succumbs To Burns

Mrs. Henrietta Silverberg, 83, died in Garfield Hospital yesterday of burns suffered Saturday when her clothing caught fire while she was cooking breakfast.

Duputy Coroner Dr. Richard M. Rosenberg issued a certificate of accidental death caused by second and third-degree burns over her entire body.

Mrs. Silverberg was preparing from the stove in her kitchen at 3561 10th st., nw., when the rag in her hand ignited and set fire to her clothing.

Two neighbors heard her screams and helped extinguish the flames. Her 84-year-old husband was upstairs and did not hear her screams, police said. A former Treasury Department employe, he was preparing to go to work in his brother's electrical shop at 627 I st., nw.

Junior Red Cross Leaders to Take Training Course

About 150 junior Red Cross leaders representing public, private, and parochial schools in the District will get a week of camping and leadership training this month, Lester T. Walter, junior Red Cross chairman, announced yesterday.

One group of junior leaders began their week at Camp Lichtman near Triangle, Va., yesterday. The others will go to Camp Kahlert at West River, Md., from August 23 through August 30.

The purpose of the training is to acquaint junior leaders with Red Cross work, and provide information on junior Red Cross programs and activities.

Motorist Reports Theft

James T. Pettus of Middleburg, Va., reported to police yesterday that clothing and cameras valued at $335 were stolen from his car parked at 35th st. and Prospect av. nw.

Ft. Myer Soldier Killed When Car Hits Steel Fence

Two Others Escape In Post Accident; Broken Neck Fatal To Policeman's Son

Pfc. Albert A. Rawls, 22, of Fort Myer, Va., was killed instantly last night when the car in which he rode went out of control at a post entrance and slammed into a heavy fence.

Rawls, of Cardova, Ala., was attached to the 7001 Army Service Unit.

Arlington police said the driver of the car was Pfc. Louis D. Wertenberger, 25. They identified a second passenger as Pvt. Edward Chappell, 21. Both men are members of the 7001 Service Unit. They suffered shock.

Police quoted Wertenberger as saying he drove through the Fort Myer dr. entrance about 9 p. m. A few feet inside the car struck the right curb, shot to the left of the street and jumped the curb, rolling down a grade and into the steel fence surrounding the post.

According to police, tire marks showed the car skidded 20 feet before jumping the curb. The auto was demolished. Military authorities are investigating the accident.

Asleep in Back Seat

Daniel David Pittman, jr., 24-year-old son of a Washington police lieutenant, died in Gallinger Hospital yesterday as a result of a broken neck suffered August 3 in a traffic accident on Route 5, near TB, Md.

Young Pittman, who was a policeman for one year, was sleeping in the back seat of a car that missed a turn, plunged down a bank and overturned.

Mr. Pittman

The car was driven by Mrs. Yvonne Sawyer, 26, 2607 Sherman ave. nw., police said. Mrs. Sawyer was not hurt. Another passenger, Willie Jones, 32, 3615 13th st nw., was injured slightly.

Pittman is the only son of Thirteenth Precinct Lieut. Daniel David Pittman. A graduate of St. Augustine's School and Dunbar High School, he resigned from the police force in 1949. Since then he has been working at his mother's store at 1244 Florida ave., ne. He was married but separated, and the father of two children.

Park Policeman Hurt

A United States Park policeman was severely injured and his cruiser demolished at 3:10 a. m. yesterday in an accident at Ridge rd. and 28th st., Arlington, Va.

Sergt. Andrew J. Bickford, 47, 2003 Commonwealth ave., Alexandria, Va., was reported in "fair" condition at Alexandria Hospital, after suffering cuts and bruises and a possible skull fracture.

His partner, Sergt. R. D. Livingston, 44, 102 E Rosemary la., Falls Church, Va., was shaken up.

The accident occurred, police said, when a car driven by Edward M. Brooks, 19, East Falls Church, ran through a stop sign at 60 miles an hour. Brooks and three passengers in his car, were not injured.

Brooks was charged with reckless driving and driving without a permit. He will appear in Arlington County Court August 18.

In another traffic accident Mrs. Cora M. Swann, 51, 1101 East Capitol st., was treated for abrasions and contusions and released at Casualty Hospital yesterday. Her car and one operated by Major Marcellus R. Wooles, 35, 4032 1st st. sw., were in collision at Naylor rd. and Suitland Parkway, se.

Herman Jones, jr., 19, 909 44th st. ne., was reported in fair condition at Gallinger yesterday, after he apparently fell asleep and the car he was driving ran into a tree in the 3200 block of Minnesota ave. se. He suffered a possible skull fracture.

Survived 10 Days

Woman, 21, Dies After Poison Dose

Miss Madge Connevey, attractive 21-year-old Navy typist who came to Washington only six weeks ago, died in Georgetown University Hospital yesterday, 10 days after taking a poisonous dose of mercury pills.

Deputy Coroner Dr. Richard M. Rosenberg said the girl had swallowed nine pills of bichloride of mercury, "150 percent more than a fatal dose."

The young G-girl took the pills on the evening of August 3 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Atkinson, friends with whom she was living, at 4525 N. 19th st., Arlington, Va.

Fights for Life

She apparently started to fight for her life almost immediately after she tried to end it. The kitchen sink in the Atkinson home was littered with shells of eggs she had swallowed in an effort to get rid of the poison.

A few minutes later she ran to the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Murphy, at 4519 N. 19th st., and told them she was "awfully sick" and had taken the pills.

"She had been crying and still was crying when she came in," Mrs. Murphy said yesterday, "and her whole body was cold and wet."

Call for Help

The Murphys called for the help of a boarder, Clarence Lawson, a former hospital corpsman in the Navy, who said he forced the girl to drink glass after glass of hot water and mustard.

Miss Connevey was rushed to Arlington Hospital and transferred later to Georgetown. Police said she had suffered a head injury as a child when she dived into shallow water and had suffered severe headaches since that time. But both Mrs. Atkinson and Mrs. Murphy said the girl had not told of such headaches.

Mrs. Atkinson described Miss Connevey as "the happiest-acting girl in the world." She said Miss Connevey had received only one letter from a boy friend during her stay in Washington.

Had Planned to Study

Miss Connevey had originally visited Washington with her mother, Mrs. David Fischel, from Denver, just prior to July weekend, planned to return to college in Texas. But she stayed to apply for a job, and when she was accepted she decided to wait until 1951 before returning to complete her studies at the University of Texas, Mrs. Atkinson said.

In addition to her mother, Miss Connevey is survived by her father, John Connevey, of Tulepa, Tex., and two sisters, Mrs. Gray Harris and Mrs. N. G. Manis.

Funeral services have been scheduled for Friday in San Antonio, Tex., pending the signing of the death certificate.

Dr. Rosenberg withheld the certificate to await further investigation by Virginia authorities.

Virginia, Md. Legions Meet This Week

Virginia and Maryland State American Legion conventions will be held Wednesday through Saturday in Alexandria and Baltimore.

Some 2500 Legionnaires from all parts of Virginia are expected at the Alexandria conclave at the Virginia Theater, including many representing the 4300 members in the northern Virginia district.

Speakers will include Senator Harry F. Byrd, Governor Battle, Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul Griffith and Representative Howard Smith (D., Va.).

Smith will be presented with the State Legion medal, F. Clinton Knight, general chairman on convention arrangements, said. The citation, according to Knight, will laud Smith's "initiation of measures whch prevent Communist undermining of the national Government."

A parade, with 13 drum and bugle corps participating, is scheduled in Alexandria for Friday.

Other events include the Legion's State golf tournament Thursday.

Maryland convention headquarters will be the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore.

Fair and Cool Forecast Today

The weatherman predicts another nice day today and says you may need a blanket tonight.

Saturday night was the coolest—58 degrees—since the middle of June. Highest yesterday was 79 degrees at 4:20 p. m. Similar temperatures are scheduled for today.

Clear skies are expected to continue into Tuesday, with showers possible Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Cleric Sees Arms, Prayers As Sole Choices

Two solutions of present world unrest were offered by the Rev. John Waldron, C.SS.R., yesterday in the third of a series of five public religious services in honor of Our Lady of Fatima.

The director of the Novena to Our Lady of Perpetual Help at Sacred Heart Church, Baltimore, said that either "secular or military might" or "praying to God for world peace" would solve the world's troubles.

Father Waldron said there is "slim hope that civilization as we know it today can survive an A-bomb war."

However, the priest added, "it is within our choice to either accept the revelations of Our Lady of Fatima or reject them and fall back on the military might." He spoke at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University.

The series honors Our Lady of Fatima, who reportedly appeared in Fatima, Portugal, on the 13th of each month from May to October, 1917. She was said to have predicted a third great world war if people did not cease offending God.

Services to Mark Assumption Tuesday

The Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary will be celebrated Tuesday by Roman Catholics and some Protestant denominations.

The feast, which commemorates the reception into heaven of the Blessed Virgin's body, is a holy day of obligation for all Roman Catholics and some high Episcopalians.

Most downtown Catholic churches will have additional masses for office workers and other employed persons.

Investigation Ordered In Woman's Death

Homicide Squad officers yesterday were investigating the death of Sharon Martell, 35, who was found dead by her husband, James, Saturday, at 936 I st. nw.

Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenberg said he was withholding a death certificate pending a chemical analysis.

Summerald
Traffic Tips

1. Start out early. The early bird gets the worm and the early driver gets cooler weather, a better-acting motor, fewer cars on the road, more leisure to enjoy scenery and other attractions.

Make your plans for the entire trip to include starts much nearer to sunrise than to sunset. Then you won't be a tense, fagged-out menace, hurrying to make a stop for a satisfactory night's lodging, missing a lot of the best vacation benefits.

D. C. Air Guard Squadron Hits Sleeve Targets in Stiff Drill

Intensive gunnery drills featured the second day of active duty training by the 121st "White House" jet fighter squadron, D. C. Air National Guard, at Andrews Air Force Base yesterday.

The jet pilots also were alerted to defend their base at a moment's notice from simulated attacks by two other Air National Guard units training at Byrd Field, Sandston, Va.

Twenty-seven gunnery sorties were flown by the fighter squadron, beginning at 5 a. m. Flights of four of the F-84 Thunderjets took off at 20-minute intervals, rendezvoused over the Atlantic aerial range and fired pass after pass at long sleeves towed by planes from the 121st Utility Flight.

Results were good, according to squadron commander Lieut. Col. W. W. Millikan, 4346 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria, and Lieut. John E. Kester, 1912 Irving st., squadron gunnery officer.

"These pilots are relatively new to gunnery in these F-84s," Millikan said, "but the Thunderjet is a wonderful gunnery ship and scores are already showing it."

Millikan also singled out the maintenance job being done by the "weekend warriors."

The simulated attack by jets on Andrews Base was announced from Byrd Field, where the 121st's parent organization, the 113th group headquarters, is training.

Col. Laidler B. Mackall, 133d Group commander, said the attack mission will be based on the assumption that Andrews is not protected by radar and that interception must be made by patrol.

The Guardsmen will hear a lecture today on the "Principles of War" by three officers from the United States Air Force's Air Command and Staff School at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama.

More gunnery sorties are also scheduled to make the pilots as familiar with the F-84s as they were with the slower planes of World War II.

Your Baby

New Mother Will Prefer Useful Gifts

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

THERE are few entertainments so pleasing to the guest of honor as either pre-nuptial or pre-baby ones. Both are inspired by the kind desire to help a woman to prepare for her new home or baby and spare her some of the expense attached.

Mrs. B. R. wonders if it is correct to give a baby shower after the baby is born. "We couldn't get to it before the birth and now we wonder if it would look like 'charity'? The mother doesn't need charity."

Not at all. But since it may be taken for granted that all the baby's present needs have been filled, you should choose garments that will be suitable to the fall or winter and in sizes which will fit the baby in six months to a year, not when new-born.

Also, very few mothers provide dresses, for in the event the baby is a boy the dresses would not be used. So, if this be a girl maybe some dainty frocks would be just what the mother might want.

It isn't usual to lay in very many of the more expensive garments the baby might use after the sixth month. Maybe the mother would be glad to tell you what she does not have and thus give you an opportunity to provide something really useful but gifty.

Often, in such circumstances as you describe, the guests might combine their resources and give the baby some piece of nursery equipment, such as a crib, or chiffonier, or baby scales, or a feeding table or high chair. These are all large purchases which often strain the pocketbooks of the young couple and which would be much appreciated by them.

If you do not want to invest this much, then a lovely snow suit, or a nice all-wool blanket of crib size, or a carriage robe, would make useful gifts which no doubt the mother has not had time to buy.

Since your object is to honor the mother, you should make it your objective to get something she needs and wants, instead of just presenting trivial gifts.

Cool Eating Comes From Cool Cooking

SUMMER cooking isn't a problem if you do your serious cooking in the early morning, and your serious eating in the late evening.

You can also greet the inevitable unexpected summer visitors with cool confidence if you keep your pantry well stocked with canned goods, says Helen McCully.

Among a series of suggestions and recipes for hot weather eating, in McCall's for August, she describes dishes that require very little last-minute preparation and others that can be whipped up out of a can:

BROWN CHICKEN STEW

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon salt
5-6 tablespoons bacon fat
3 medium potatoes
1 package frozen peas
2 medium onions, sliced thin
1 10-ounce can chicken noodle soup
1½ cans water

Buy chicken cut up in small pieces for frying. Bright and early in the morning wipe chicken clean, then toss in a paper bag with flour, thyme, pepper and salt until thickly coated.

Melt bacon fat in large, heavy skillet that has a cover. Place chicken pieces in skillet and cook tightly covered over medium heat until chicken is very crusty and brown. About 15 minutes. Turn chicken occasionally to brown all sides. Cool and put in refrigerator.

About 30 minutes before dinner, take the chicken out of the refrigerator. Add the peeled potatoes which have been cut in small balls or cubes, peas (better break them apart a little), onion slices, chicken noodle soup and water. Cook over a medium heat, covered tightly, for 25 to 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender when tested with a fork. Plenty here for six.

AVOCADO MOUSSE

1 package lime gelatin
1 cup hot water
2 cups ripe avocado, mashed (takes 2½ average avocados)
1 small onion
½ cup mayonnaise
Juice of 1 small lemon
5 to 6 sprigs parsley
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup heavy cream

Dissolve gelatin in water. Cool in the refrigerator until gelatin is syrupy. Meanwhile peel and crush avocados with a fork and grate the onion fine. Add onion, mayonnaise, lemon juice, finely chopped parsley and salt.

Beat cream stiff and stir it into the avocado mixture gently. Add the syrupy gelatin and mix through carefully. Pour into a medium ring mold and set in the refrigerator to chill until solid. Unmold at the very moment you are going to eat (avocado turns brown if it stands exposed) and fill the center with cut-up chicken, tongue or seafood that has been mixed with a little French dressing. Serves six generously.

Post-Varnish Application Of Pumice Stone Will Help Smooth Wooden Furniture

DEAR ANNE:

We recently bought three unpainted book cases and wanted them to match some mahogany furniture we already have. A clerk in one of the better stores where we bought them told us to use a varnish stain as it was easier to use than a stain.

Now, after applying two coats, they are much darker than I wanted and so rough I can't wax them as the cloth hangs and snags when I try to wipe them off. I wonder now if we should have sanded them or applied a filler or base coat of some sort just before varnishing. Is it too late to remedy a bad situation? I thought of trying a clear varnish or shellac now, but am reluctant to try that or spend any more unless I know what the results will be. Any advice will be appreciated.

Mrs. A. H., Falls Church, Va.

Since a smooth under-surface is the foundation of a good finish, it would have been wise to sand the wood before varnishing. If the wood is open-grained, a filler would have been a fine idea, too.

Now that the deed is done—and I take it you don't want to skin off all that varnish and start again—you should be able to do some smoothing with pumice stone. This won't lighten the color, of course, but should give you a nicer surface.

A piece of felt is the best thing to use for the rubbing. A strip from an old felt hat will do if it has been washed to remove all dirt and thoroughly dried. Sprinkle the pumice stone on the furniture, moisten the felt in paraffin rubbing oil or linseed oil, and rub with the grain of the wood, or at least in the same direction at all times. When the surface has been well rubbed and smoothed, use a clean cloth dipped in oil to remove the excess abrasive from the surface.

DEAR ANNE:

I am at a loss as to what color to paint my living room. The room is large with one picture window and a stone fireplace, with built-in-bookshelves at either end of the room. I have a gray knubby sofa, a gray rug which is a shade lighter, Hunter's green club chair and drapes to match. The tables are blonde and I want to add another chair, new lamps, and cocktail table. C. F., Falls Church, Va.

It seems to me you have lots of choices here. Both the colors you already have are amiable ones, blending well with other shades. A sunny yellow occurred to me first for the walls. This would be pretty with the Hunter's green and liven the gray.

Or you could use gray on the wall, in a little lighter shade than the rug, if you want a restful room. In this case, though, introduce more color in furniture, draperies, and accessories so the effect won't be drab.

A dusty rose would be attractive for the walls, too. Or you could have them green—the same tone quality as the Hunter's green but lighter. A third color could then be introduced in the new furniture and lamps.

ATTENTION M. T.: You asked the other day about second-hand clothes for school children. A shop that specializes in these will reopen September 5, at 7818 Old Georgetown rd. The telephone number is OLiver 6063. I'm also forwarding to you several letters from other readers who have such clothes for sale.

DEAR ANNE:

Can you tell me how to make sweet-sour beets? P. L., Bethesda, Md.

This is a flavorful way to vary the serving of an old standby. The tiny, bite-sized beets are best for this dish, but you can use large beets cut into squares or strips.

SWEET-SOUR BEETS

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup orange juice
½ cup beet juice (drained from fresh cooked or canned beets)
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 tablespoons light brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3½ cups drained beets, fresh cooked or canned

Melt butter, blend in flour. Add all other ingredients except beets. Cook until thick, stirring constantly, and add the drained beets.

DEAR ANNE:

Can you tell me how to get a large spot of rubber cement out of a dress without injuring the fabric? P. L. T., Washington.

Rub petroleum jelly into the dried stain to loosen it. Then apply carbon tetrachloride or other cleaning fluid.

Child-Tested Menus Make Young Friends

MOST youngsters' appetites aren't in the least fazed by high summer temperatures. They can eat surprisingly well on the hottest days.

FRESH TOMATO MACARONI

1 8-oz. pkg. elbow macaroni
4 large ripe tomatoes
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
Few grains pepper
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 10½-oz. can condensed cream of celery soup.

Start your oven at 375F or moderate. Cook macaroni as directed on package. Drain. Skin tomatoes and cut in quarters. Add sugar, salt and pepper and cook over low heat until very juicy (10 to 15 minutes). Next, stir in butter or margarine and cream of celery soup.

Put layer of macaroni in bottom of greased medium baking dish, then layer of tomatoes. Repeat, ending with tomatoes. Bake 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6 adoring youngsters.

HUMPTY DUMPTY EGGS

Hard-cook enough eggs to satisfy your youngsters. (Cool eggs in cold water immediately after cooking if you want the yolks to stay bright yellow.)

When cool, peel off the shells. Then with a silver or stainless steel knife (again to prevent discoloration), trim a slice from bottom so egg will stand upright. Now cut a ½" slice from the top and hollow it out slightly.

Cut off another slice from top of the egg, thick enough so you can see the yolk and scoop it out easily. Mash yolk with a fork, work in a little mayonnaise or salad dressing, salt, pepper and mustard. Stuff eggs with seasoned yolks, shaping a hump about ½' high above egg white. Stick in 2 clove eyes, a clove nose and replace the tops. A sprig of parsley or a little square of pimiento on top of the hat makes a fine tassel.

Weddings Take Center Of Stage; Grosvenor Rite Held in Virginia

By Marie McNair

MISS ANNE ELIZABETH REVIS, member of the editorial staff of the National Geographic Society, and Melville Bell Grosvenor, assistant editor of the National Geographic Magazine, were married on Saturday in a simple ceremony held at Brookville, home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Revis of Charlottesville, Va. No previous announcement of the engagement had been made.

Mr. Grosvenor is the son of Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, and Mrs. Grosvenor, and the grandson of the late Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone.

The bride recently contributed an article to the National Geographic Magazine, "Mr. Jefferson's Charlottesville," which attracted wide attention. Before joining the society's research staff, she did research work in connection with the restoration program at Williamsburg, Va. She is an alumna of Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

Mr. Grosvenor was divorced several months ago from Mrs. Helen Rowland Grosvenor. They have three children, Mrs. Robert C. Watson, jr., Alexander Graham Bell Grosvenor and Gilbert Melville Grosvenor.

A graduate of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Mr. Grosvenor joined the staff of the National Geographic Society upon leaving the Navy. He has been an assistant editor since 1935.

For her wedding the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen Revis. Capt. Armand J. Robertson, USN, of Washington was Mr. Grosvenor's best man.

The Bride Danced At Her Wedding

SNAPSHOTS at Bev and Hugh Richardson's wedding: The bride's attendants had it easy during the almost two hours they stood in the receiving line. They all took their shoes off! . . . Annie Laurie Richardson, sister of the bridegroom, will be the next one married, according to tradition. For she caught the lei of tiny white Hawaiian crown flowers which the bride carried with her lace-covered prayerbook. . . . Barnee playing with esprit for dancing, and nobody dancing. Everyone was waiting for the bride to open the dance, which she did only after the last guest had been received.

Representative and Mrs. Dewey Short moved over from the Shoreham terrace for dinner and came home with a cluster of those beautiful flame-colored anthuriums which came from Hawaii and were used all over for the reception. Representative Jay LeFevre, being urged to change his mind and run for election, is still standing pat. He's going home to New Paltz, N. Y., after eight years in Congress.

Philippine Ambassador, Joaquin Elizalde, among the guests, and Mrs. Carlos Romulo with Gregg, looking more like brother and sister than mother and son. . . . Lady Berendsen, wife of the New Zealand Ambassador, just back after 10 days at Flat Rock, N. C. . . . Judge and Mrs. George Neilson, recently returned from six weeks' motor trip, visiting many of the National Parks. . . . Mrs. James Kem slick and chic in navy blue with a tiny hat and face covering veil. . . .

And among others, Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Oscar Chapman, former Ambassador and Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck, Representative and Mrs. Clark Thompson, Comdr. William H. Hudgins, Mrs. Robert Dyer and daughter, Dorothy (who was squired by Harry Stone), the Bob Sherrods, Mrs. Blake Clark and Mrs. Davis Elkins, back from the beach with her son, Davis, jr.

GEN. OMAR BRADLEY, Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff; Mrs. Bradley and their son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Henry S. Beukema, will be in the audience at the Olney Theater Tuesday night for the opening of songstress Hildegarde's one-woman show.

Also with them will be Mrs. Frank Matthews of Boston, a former schoolmate of Mrs. Bradley in St. Cloud, Minn., who is visiting the Bradleys, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy St. Lewis. The group will be dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. St. Lewis at Rancho Mio, their summer home nearby.

Others who will attend the first-night performance are Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Highfield; Pierre Siraud, Counselor of the French Embassy; Dr. H. Van King; H. Grady Gore; Moran McConihe; Miss Regina McKeever and Ken Allen.

Portraits

By James J. Metcalfe

In August

In August there is time to rest . . . To roam and meditate . . . And fashion our excuses if . . . We happen to be late . . . There is a warm, inviting sun . . . That seems to lull the mind . . . And there are stars that stud the dreams . . . Of glory left behind . . . The rain becomes a rainbow and . . . The lake is calm and clear . . . And all along the quiet shore . . . The shadows disappear . . . In August there are songs to sing . . . That echo in the trees . . . And mingle with the gentle winds . . . That waken memories . . . It is the season of the year . . . That sanctifies the sod . . . Where all the world may walk in peace . . . And be alone with God.

Jobé Says... Paris Makes Dramatic New Reefer Coats

It took Paris to make a dramatic new fashion out of the classic reefer. In this new guise the reefer is the fourth important fall coat fashion.

What makes it dramatic? Great flaring skirts; soft bulky tops; very nipped-in waistlines; and—newest of all—the use of hymo-stiffening in the hips just as there is in suits.

The reefer that will probably make fashion history this year is an Americanized version of one that was the success of the Dior collection in Paris this spring. It is double-breasted with a double row of buttons down the front all the way from neck to hemline.

Shakespeare Is Forte Of Filmdom TV Find

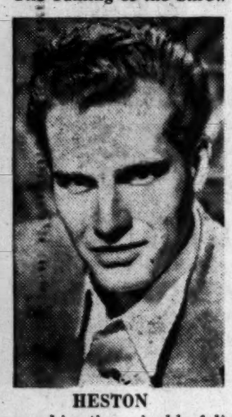
By Sonia Stein

Some people come to Washington to see the Government operate. But an actor comes here to examine the Folger Library of Shakespearean treasures. This particular actor has a second folio of "The Taming of the Shrew" in his own library. Sounds like Maurice Evans or somebody known Nation-wide for his Hamlet orations. Oddly, it's a rugged-faced young man who shortly will be known the country over for a decidedly non-Shakespearean characterization in "Dark City," a Paramount picture due here in October.



HESTON

Charlton Heston, said to be the first actor ever snapped up directly from television to movie screen without a film test of any kind, plays a rough and tumble guy in his first movie—a dark, gripping picture with Lizabeth Scott, Viveca Lindfords and Dean Jagger.

But actually he's an actor of considerable range, and played "Taming of the Shrew" on television so well a friend gave him the valuable folio as a gesture of appreciation.

Heston, who spent the weekend here (his first visit, by the way), is terribly anxious to stay an actor and not become a 'personality." He says he thinks chances are good, because more and more actors are being used in Hollywood. Personalities still make the tills ring in the theaters, he acknowledges, but so do some of the actors, like Gregory Peck, who Heston thinks has done "as good acting as you can find in American pictures."

Heston is determined to play a variety of roles, insists his movie contract allow him time for stage and television work to be sure he'll get a chance. It was Heston who pestered "Studio One" into "Taming of the Shrew" on CBS-TV. He doesn't think he could pester Paramount into doing it as a film, though. It would cost a million dollars as a movie, compared to $30,000 on TV.

He's Hollywood Material

Heston certainly looks a far cry from the traditional Shakespearean actor—or even the traditional actor of yesteryear. But he's right in Hollywood style: 6 feet 2 inches tall and such broad shoulders he's never been able to wear ready-made clothes, even when money was a serious problem. With his looks—he's a fair-haired Helmut Dantine at some angles—he probably doesn't stand a chance of getting any but hero roles in Hollywood. But maybe he's been an actor long enough. He started at 5 in a Christmas pagent. A great-uncle, Percy Charlton, who was an actor of distinction himself, saw the pageant and announced there was another actor in the family.

Heston learned his Shakespeare at his father's knee, absorbing and enjoying its drama long before any school teacher set him to the evil task of studying rhyme schemes and figures of speech.

"Chuck" Heston starred in plays in grammar school, the New Trier High School in Winnetka, Ill., where dramatic work was unusually elaborate, and then at the Northwestern University School of Speech. From Ibsen, Shaw, d'Annunzio and Shakespeare in college, Heston went smack into "Terry and the Pirates" when it originated from a Chicago radio station.

Codirector With Wife

After a stint with the Eleventh Air Force in the Aleutians, he thawed out in Asheville, N. C., where he and his wife, Lydia Clarke, currently appearing on Broadway in "Detective Story," were codirectors and leads at the Thomas Wolfe Memorial Theater.

Heston played with Katherine Cornell in "Anthony and Cleopatra," with Martha Scott in "Design For a Stained Glass Window." He worked in summer stock and on television, chiefly on "Studio One" where he appeared in "Jane Eyre," "Of Human Bondage," "Shadow and Substance" and "Battleship Bismark." He acquired a TV fan club, which is expected to follow him into the movie theaters.

So he seems to be well-rounded professionally. But he's too well squared in the shoulders to be limited to simply acting in Hollywood. The descendant of Black Douglas, the 7-foot warrior who terrorized the Scottish border, Heston probably will wind up shoving a battle-ax. Actors can be picked up any place, Mr. Heston. Men with broad shoulders are too valuable to waste in acting parts. Betcha my byline against your first swimming pool, Chuck, your studio decides so.

HOW ON EARTH do Washingtonians get around the circles is what Marilyn Wallace wants to know in "How on Earth," the entertaining musical satire about Washington which is now starting its third week at the Tent on Georgia ave. in Silver Spring. The Canvas Theater, Inc. presentation shows Washington through the eyes of three super snoopers from The Big Dipper. Miss Wallace's costume is her idea of worldly fashion as perceived through the several million light years that separate the Big Dipper from D. C.

THE DEPARTMENT OF PULCHRITUDE will be on exhibit tonight at the Sesquicentennial Amphitheater in Rock Creek Park, just off 16th st. and Colorado ave. nw., when the finals for the Miss Washington contest are held. From a dozen girls one Miss Washington will be chosen to represent us at Atlantic City in the Miss America contest, and to be our official hostess for the next year.

Since the girls are required to have talent as well as looks, more than a show of epidermis is scheduled. The contest starts at 7:30 p. m. Tickets are available for 80 cents and $1.50 (all proceeds to charity) at WWDC, which sponsors the contest along with the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Fairway Sports Center, Champion Sports, Mitchel's and the theater itself.

If there's a hint of chill, better take your coat—it's quite delightfully chilly under the stars. In case of rain, the contest will be held next Monday, as "Faith of Our Fathers" is scheduled for every evening but Monday.

THE MUSIC AND COMEDY DEPARTMENT goes into a two-week session at the Watergate at 8:30 tonight when "Kiss Me, Kate" opens. Tickets are available at Mrs. Stabler's Ticket Mart in Brentano's at 1322 F st., nw., and at the Watergate itself after 7 p. m.

THE DEPARTMENT OF MYSTERY goes into its second week at the Cross Roads Theater tomorrow night when "The Bat," by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, is presented. Audiences always expect at least one good mystery each year from a stock company, and Cross Roads didn't disappoint. But it's well that audiences remember that mystery is very difficult to stage at all, much less on a barn stage with an amateur cast. There's too much suspense about candles staying lighted, or getting lit on cue, and about whether or not the fake fireplace will stand one more shoving around without tumbling over. Cross Roads also is flirting with disaster by casting young people as old people, always a trying business that arouses more admiration for the actor than feeling for the play.

Still, "The Bat," which played 867 performances at the Morosco in New York in 1920 and is considered the most popular mystery the American theater has ever known, is not to be overlooked in any version. As part of Cross Roads' series of "dated" plays, reflecting the city's Sesquicentennial in its own way, it's perfect. And the company does handle it well, handicaps considered.

Cross Roads takes reservations by phone (EX. 5640) and plays Tuesday through Saturday evenings at 8:45. The 7:50 bus from 12th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. gets you there in time.

'Flu' Epidemic Strikes In Northern Quebec

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 13 (U.P.)—Three persons have died and about 300 are ill, some critically, in an influenza epidemic in northern Quebec, Search and Rescue officials said today.

The officials said a medical team arrived today at the village of Ungava Bay, where the epidemic is centered. Officials said an equal number of whites and natives were down with the diseases.

Show Times

Olney—No performance tonight. Hildegarde in a song recital starts Tuesday at 8:40 p. m.

Sesquicentennial Amphitheater in Rock Creek Park—"Faith of Our Fathers," a symphonic drama by Paul Green at 8:30 p. m. nightly except Monday.

Vatican Envoy Plan Opposed By Adventists

President Truman was petitioned yesterday not to send "a diplomatic mission on any level or rank to the Vatican, or to any other church organization or body."

The action was taken by the Potomac Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists at Sligo Church, Flower and Carroll aves., Takoma Park. More than 4000 members and delegates are attending the 10-day conference, which ends Saturday.

A telegram to the President accompanied the resolution which read:

"Seventh-Day Adventists in conference session . . . respectfully request that you refrain from appointing a diplomatic mission to the Vatican for the reason that, (1) The Pope is the head of a church; (2) Under the American system, the province of a church and state are to be kept forever separate; and (3) the state has nothing of importance to learn from the Roman Catholic Church or any other religious organization which cannot be learned through appropriate channels with the heads of secular governments. We believe this matter of vital importance to all American people. We are looking for you to deal with it in the traditional American way and keep diplomatic hands off every church or synagogue or whatever creed."

No Animus Intended

The resolution added there is "no animus for the Roman Catholic Church, its leadership or its members" (in the petition).

"We feel just as strongly that our President should not now or at any other time seek to enter diplomatic relations with any church or synagogue . . .

"No church," the resolution read, "is divinely equipped or mandated to shape human government, or to function in any area of diplomacy . . ."

Other business yesterday included a report by Elder Howard J. Detwiler, president of the conference. He said membership in the conference's 60 churches showed a 15 percent gain last year.

Admitted to Conference

Five new churches were admitted to the conference. Last year 18 churches were either built, purchased or completed, Elder Detwiler said.

Three missionaries returning from the recent world conference in California told of Adventist advances around the world. They were Elder A. F. Tarr, of India; Elder E. T. Zytoskee, of Africa, and Elder C. P. Sorenson, of Singapore.

Today the conference will hear the report of the nominating committee and talks by Dr. Oliver Jaque, a Russian exile from Siberia; Elder T. Housel Jemison, Bible teacher at Washington Memorial College, and Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, former president of Washington Missionary College.

Servicemen to Have Robert E. Lee Cruise

The Unification Society will sponsor a moonlight cruise on the SS Robert E. Lee Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. for Negro servicemen, their wives, and veterans. Music will be provided by the Ninety-fourth Engineer Battalion of Fort Belvoir.

Invitations will be distributed at 2505 Benning rd. ne. today and Tuesday from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. by Bernard Lynn, arrangements chairman.

Search Party Finds 1 Body On Mountain

Lone Pine, Calif., Aug. 13 (AP).—The body of 17-year-old Stephen Wasserman, scion of a wealthy Eastern family, was found today at the 11,500-foot level on Mount Whitney. But searchers found no trace of his climbing companion, Christopher Smith Reynolds, tobacco heir.

Identification was made by W. C. Rigg and Ralph Adams, operators of Cerro Gordo gold mine, for which the two youths had worked this summer.

The body, lying in deep snow above the timberline and at the base of 3000-foot granite cliff, was reached by a searching party of veteran mountain climbers after an all-day trek. The body was frozen, but not severely battered.

Reynolds is the son of Libby Holman Reynolds, former torch singer, and the late Zachary Reynolds, member of the tobacco family, who was mysteriously slain before the boy was born. Wasserman is the son of a Philadelphia and New York broker. His parents came here last night, hoping to join the search. Reynolds' mother, in Paris, planned to fly to the United States.

Bonfire Watcher Hurt

Clifton C. Andrews, 27, of 717 G st. nw., was taken to Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital yesterday after a bottle exploded in a bonfire he was watching on the circus grounds at Benning rd. and Oklahoma av. ne., shooting fragments of glass into his right eye.

Look in the Book by Bell

Up until 1949, residents of San Francisco's Chinatown used the only "hand-painted" telephone directory in America. The names, addresses and numbers of more than 2,000 subscribers were listed there in Chinese characters which had to be lettered by hand, then photographed and printed. Now Chinatown has switched to dial service and the familiar "Day huey bin shi ah?" ("Number, please?") is a thing of the past.

You'll find the right number here!

To find exactly what you want to buy and where to buy it, simply look in the YELLOW PAGES, your Classified Telephone Directory. In addition to the regular listings of the businesses you're interested in, you'll find the answers to such questions as "How near are they located?" "What hours are they open?" and other equally helpful information. To save time and wasted calls, always look in the book.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company.

Brannan Says 'Hill' Critic Inaccurate

Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan has accused Representative Clifford R. Hope (R., Kans.), former chairman of the House Agriculture Committee of "grossly misrepresenting" the so-called Brannan Plan.

In an angrily-worded letter dated last Friday, Brannan particularly criticized a pamphlet put out under Hope's congressional frank, entitled "Analysis of the Brannan Plan." Among the charges Brannan made were:

1. That a box on Page 1 of the pamphlet, entitled "Fines and Jail Sentences," was misleading. This box, Brannan said, indicated that the Brannan Plan carried severe penalities for farmers who failed to observe the law. "The plain fact," Brannan wrote, "Is that the legislation . . . proposed to reduce the penalty provision of the existing laws." This box, Brannan said, is a "great disservice to the farmers," and "most unfair."

'Wild Guesses' Denied

2. That the pamphlet stated that the Brannan Plan guarantees farmers "an income at wartime levels." "No one should know better than you that no commodity program guarantee income," Brannan wrote. "No responsible advocate of our proposals has ever said, or even implied, the statement attributed to us in your pamphlet."

3. That the pamphlet gives a "series of wild guesses" as to the cost of the Brannan Plan "which have no foundation." Brannan pointed out that the Hope portion of the Agricultural Act of 1948 also bore no cost estimates, "not even on potatoes, the most extensive price-support operation in history."

4. That the pamphlet compares the Administration bill with the British food subsidy, "a comparison," he says, "which has no basis in either fact or logic."

Plan Based on Old Laws

"Repeatedly," Brannan wrote "I have stressed the fact that our proposals neither require nor call for any type of authority over the Nation's agriculture other than has existed for more than a decade, and that has been approved by Democratic and Republican Congresses alike.

"Another inaccuracy which is entirely irrelevant and equally unfair is your statement that the Brannan Plan originated with the political leaders of organized labor. You are well aware that what has becomes known as the Brannan Plan is in reality a series of recommendations for changes in existing legislation and that each recommendation has some precedent in the farm laws which we are now administering."

British, French Teachers Arrive In U. S. Job Swap

New York, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—One hundred and 15 British and French teachers arrived on the Queen Mary today to trade jobs with American teachers in the next school year.

This is the fifth year the teachers have exchanged positions in a program sponsored by the United States Office of Education in cooperation with the Secretary of State.

About 75 percent of the teachers are women. Eleven are from France and will teach French in American schools. They will take up teaching posts in 33 States.

They will be guests at various receptions and functions in New York and will go to Washington where they will be received by President Truman on Thursday.

Clippings Indicate Dead Lunatic Was Heir to Fortune

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 13 (U.P.).—An aged man jailed here on a lunacy warrant 11 years ago died today, leaving newspaper clippings indicating he was an heir to a British fortune.

The clippings seemingly identified gaunt, tatooed "Gramps" Corbould, 73, a jail trusty, as Dr. Thomas Alexander Corbould, one of seven heirs to a brewery estate worth $8,365,000.

Sheriff's records showed the man was found insane when arrested after a disturbance here.

Jailor Jim Price looked into Corbould's belongings after he died of meningitis this morning and found two clippings dated September 10, 1938.

The stories in the Denver Post and Pueblo Star Journal, announced that a Bank of England representative was arranging a meeting of seven heirs of Corbould's grandmother, Jane Kearton Corbould, of Bath, England.

Bulgarian Move To Deport Turks Held Violation

Ankara, Aug. 13 (U.P.).—Bulgaria's decision to deport 250,000 citizens of Turkish descent to Turkey was a violation of the United Nations human rights declaration, semiofficial sources said today.

A foreign office spokesman said the government has not yet received the note which Bulgaria announced yesterday had been handed to Turkish Charge d'Affaires Sadun Erem in Sofia. Erem was scheduled to arrive later today and it was assumed he will bring the note with him.

Turkish Ambassador to Sofia Shevkati Istinyeli, who has been here for 11 months, told the press today there were 850,000 Turks in Bulgaria.

Ready for Immediate Occupancy
EXAMINE THESE FEATURES. COMPARE THEM WITH OTHER APARTMENTS. AND BE AMAZED!
1. Private entrances and broad, private terraces for family living, face a whole mile of cool, wooded parkland.
2. Twenty individual spacious layouts of one, two and three-bedroom units, some with bedrooms upstairs.
3. An unusual roadway system provides safety for children, with one-way traffic and brings the car to your own front door.
4. Almost half the units are end units, with sun, air and long views on three sides.
5. Masonry walls between units provide complete soundproofing.
6. Stair-climbing reduced to a minimum, as private entrances (70 percent of total) enter directly at ground level.

Father of 3 Confesses Sex Slaying

Chicago, Aug. 13 (AP)—A father of three children today admitted in a signed statement the sex slaying of Roberta Rinearson, 10-year-old parochial school girl.

George Lettrich, jr., 36-year-old unemployed punch press operator of suburban Cicero, signed the statement after a six-hour lie detector test, State's Attorney John S. Boyle said. Lettrich's confession brought to an end a 19-month manhunt during which nearly 3000 persons were questioned.

Roberta's ravished body was found December 18, 1948, in a ditch near a cemetery between Chicago and suburban Elmhurst. She had been beaten, gagged with her own panties and strangled. A coroner's report said she had been raped.

Lettrich denied he had raped Roberta, a pretty blonde girl who physically appeared to be much older than her 10 years, but said he took indecent liberties with her.

He was arrested in suburban Lyons August 3 for taking indecent liberties with two young girls he had forced to undress in a forest preserve area.

Mob Surrounds Jail Holding Slayer of 3

Walhalla, S. C., Aug. 13 (AP).—A crowd gathered tonight before the jail containing a former convict who was reported by officers to have confessed slaying two little girls and their father.

Georgia Bureau of Investigation agent Woody Wilson said the crowd numbered between 200 and 300 and was "more curious than anything else."

Sheriff Eddie Weathers and Wilson announced earlier that the former convict, Curtis Shedd, had confessed to slaying the two girls and led officers to their bodies. The officers said he admitted killing the girls' father, John Boyter, 38. His body was found last week.

The GBI agent said Shedd at the same time implicated the slain man's wife, Mrs. Christine Boyter, 30, in the killings, saying she ordered him to kill the girls and held a pistol on him while he strangled them.

The GBI man said Shedd has been charged with the three murders and that "it's only a matter of time before we draw up warrants" charging Mrs. Boyter.

[The United Press reported that, according to Shedd's account, it all started when Boyter attempted to maneuver his wife and Shedd into an intimate relationship to gain grounds for an adultry divorce suit. The attack on the girls still was unexplained.]

Beginning: 'Women Aren't Men'

(Reprinted through the courtesy of The Atlantic Monthly, in the August issue of which these articles initially appeared.)

By Agnes E. Meyer

CHAPTER ONE

Women have many careers but only one vocation—motherhood. As a result their most successful careers are motherhood-substitutes such as teaching, nursing, social work, as well as medical, psychiatric, and other scientific professions that protect the child and the family. A woman confronting the world has no greater resources than those she finds within herself. Education can do no worse than to destroy those instinctive resources. It can do no better than to enhance them. When woman sublimates her mother-instinct in a career, she can achieve a rich, beneficent and rewarding life. But only if she follows her vocation can she live in the fullest sense of the word. It is for woman as mother, actual or vicarious, to restore security in our insecure world—not the economic security on which we now lean far too much, but the emotional security for which the world longs as much as it longs for its daily bread.

We should look critically at woman's evolution in our industrial society, for the record that confronts us on every side as to woman's influence is not reassuring. The mounting divorce rate, the appalling number of youthful crimes, the deliberate neglect of children in many homes, and the looseness of sexual morality among young and old—these are merely some of the inescapable signs of a decaying moral structure in areas for which women have a prime responsibility.

The industrial revolution which has transformed our whole society created a transformation in the life of women far more profound than in the life of men. Two world wars and a depression have up-rooted family life and created a Nation-wide turmoil whose disorders our public and private welfare agencies have tried in vain to counteract. At the same time woman's traditional responsibilities were augmented by challenging social and political demands. She fought successfully for the vote, for equal rights in every field of endeavor. She was forced through economic necessity and through choice into the competitive maelstrom of our free-enterprise system. About 17 million women now have daily jobs and many more are doing part-time work.

It is no wonder that women have become confused and to a great extent disoriented. None of us—not even those of us old enough to date back to the stable prewar society of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century which gave us a happy and secure childhood—have lived through the pandemonium of the later years without a tremendous internal and external struggle for integrity.

The shattering of the social structure has disastrously isolated the individual; it has also accelerated the spirit of competition inherent in our free-enterprise system to an almost unendurable intensity. To the extent that there is a world trend toward socialism, I am convinced, it is psychic as well as economic. Many people are tired and frightened to a point where they can no longer endure their social isolation and the burden of an individual destiny. Only the democratic nations have the vitality, the sense of responsibility, and the moral fortitude to accept the burden of individual freedom in a world shattered by two world wars. It is an exacting but never a dull life. It is a life of constant individual decisions, of irrevocable choices made every day, every hour, for good or for evil.

It is precisely because of this temporary moral, mental, and social isolation of the individual in a democratic society that the role of woman has become of crucial importance. For woman is the cement of society. Since time immemorial it has been woman who has held the family, society, and life itself together. She did it instinctively to protect herself during pregnancy and to protect her children during their long period of helplessness. Through this fundamental need for family solidarity it is woman who has developed the art of human relationships and an appreciation of the vital importance of human behavior. Whether the conditions were primitive or whether society attained the extreme refinement of the eighteenth-century aristocracy, it was woman who created the moral atmosphere of these diverse conditions. And today woman must look back with a clear comprehension to the moral force she once exerted in the social structure and realize that she can and must save our civilization from destruction by achieving new moral standards that will conform to the very different conditions of the present day.

Business Field to See Big Video Advances

By Wayne Oliver

NEW YORK, (AP).—Your home television set will undergo some major changes in the next few years, but the greatest future developments in the new medium will be in commercial and industrial use.

Most scientists and industry leaders predict television's role at home entertainment will be far overshadowed by it use in factories, department stores, mines and hospitals—and in schools too.

Still further in the future, there are predictions of pocket sets, of guided missiles with television "eyes" that will flash scenes far throughout the world to your screen, and other video marvels.

Department Store

BUT IN THE more immediate future, as practical probabilities, these prospects are outlined:

A department store has a convenient downstairs salon where on a series of television screens the customer can see, in full color, some of the choice wares in departments throughout the store. You might even order from there if you didn't want to take an elevator or escalator up to the departments.

The worker at an atomic energy installation watches on a television screen at a completely safe distance while using remote control to handle dangerous radioactive materials.

A plant superintendent, watching viewing screens in his office, keeps track of the flow of materials and parts right up to the finished product, and can prevent bottlenecks from developing.

Students throughout a school or an entire city watch and listen by television to a highly important lecture or demonstration.

Some Are Realities

THESE are much more than remote possibilities —some already are realities. They are only a few of commercial, industrial and educational uses foreseen for television.

There have been numerous demonstrations of color television to permit mass viewing of surgical operations, on equipment designed by the Columbia Broadcasting System for Smith, Kline and French, Philadelphia pharmaceutical concern.

Engineers at the Argonne atomic installation at Chicago, with the cooperation of Allen B. DuMont laboratories, ave designed special three-dimensional video equipment for remote control handling of radioactive materials.

The Radio Corp. of America has developed a special low cost, lightweight industrial television system called vidicon, using a camera which weighs only eight pounds and is no bigger than a home movie camera.

DuMont has developed a high definition industrial color television system to be used where color fidelity and fineness of detail are essential.

Capehart-Farnsworth Corp. also is among the companies that have developed special industrial television.

Simpler Sets

SO FAR AS home television is concerned, its progress is likely to parallel that of radio. Sets will become simpler, you will get better sets for your money, outdoor antennas probably will disappear except for unusual locations. Color television for the public may be as close as one year away. Several companies are working on three-dimensional video, but there are no definite commitments on when it will arrive.

The television telephone, demonstrated experimentally by Bell Laboratories more than 20 years ago, probably will make its first appearance in business and industry to connect separate offices and plants.

Calvert st., Baltimore, Md., says that if the Massachusetts doctor thinks Washington's water has a bad taste, he ought to try Baltimore's. She writes: "Our water always tastes like a chemical laboratory smells; Washington has the best water in the East" . . . Jim Wilfong, jr., of 1541 Montana ave. ne. is vacationing at Bethany Beach, Del., and reports that if there's any excitement in the vicinity, he hasn't found it . . . My item about the Abbott family that almost named its son Peter reminds Warren Thwing of 4534 N. 19th st., Arlington, Va., that there's a student at Yale named Foster Holmes. The gang calls him "Orphanage" . . . And Gretchen Hood of 1226 Fairmont st. nw. is reminded of those radio commercials about "film on teeth," because she has a friend named Phil Monteith . . . So long as everybody else is being reminded of things, I'm reminded of the old joke about the fellow who asks the country postmaster: "Any mail for Mike Howe?" only to have the postmaster reply: "Don't be silly; who would write to your cow?" . . . Dorothy Jones ("wife of plain Joe Jones") of 7501 Arden rd., Cabin John Park, Md., says you're all invited to the Annual Summer Dog Show to be presented by the Capital City Cocker Club at 1:30 p. m., Saturday, August 19. It'll be at Hains Point, right near the Tea House, and admission is free . . . Albert Berkowitz of the Hippodrome Theater (9th st. and New York ave. nw.) tells me that in fixing up the Hipp for its August 16 opening as a legitimate theater "workmen have been removing wads of gum from the bottoms of the seats, so that they can be painted—the seats, not the wads of gum. And so far, we've collected about a bushel of second-hand chewing gum." Al wonders whether it's good for anything—and the way the tire situation is growing steadily unbetter, maybe we ought to advise him to save it—for retreads . . . Merrill R. Nafziger of 1901 Wyoming ave. nw. tells me that the Park Police are getting a lot of complaints about a mixup at a recent band concert at the Jefferson Memorial. One policeman told overflow parkers it was all right to leave their cars in a certain spot—and another policeman came along and tagged them . . . Adam Penrod of 4801 Ravenswood rd., Riverdale, Md., and Post Carrier Bruce Haslam of 5025 N. 25th rd., Arlington, Va., predict that I'll hear from the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad as a result of that cat-on-the-train item, because "the B. & O. is one road that invites passengers to bring their pets along" . . . "Detection Tests Associates" have opened offices at 1739 F st. nw. to make lie detector tests available to local businessmen who want to verify the honesty of their employes. There will be little cheering among newspaper reporters, who write some of America's best fiction on expense account forms.

ANYTHING FOR A LAUGH

Leo Farrell tells a wonderful story about Simon Gerber, wealthy local businessman.

Leo and Simon lunched together about two years ago, on a day when Simon had come away from home without his wallet. So Leo paid the check.

Two days later, local newspapers carried the story of the sale of one of Gerber's properties, the Alban Towers, which netted Simon a cool two million in cash. That afternoon, Gerber came around to pay Leo for his half of the luncheon check.

"There was no rush about paying me, Simon," Leo murmured. "You shouldn't have sold that fine apartment house just to get my dollar and a half."

Franco Loan Backs Soviet Aims

By Tom McNamara and Fred Blumenthal

(While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by members of his staff.—Editor's Note.)

The American Embassy reports from Moscow that the Kremlin is delighted with the United States Senate's recent decision to loan Dictator Franco 100 million dollars.

Franco

In fact, the Russians are already planning to use this as a new tool for anti-American propaganda. The Reds have a long list of quotes from Franco's own lips, more poisonous than anything they could invent. Here are a few quotes that the Communists will be flinging in our faces:

1938—(To Hitler) "Cordial congratulations (on annexation of the Czechs)." Remember Lidice?

Rejected Nominees

Though President Truman was plenty miffed when the Senate rejected four major nominations last week—the worst setback Congress has handed him this session—he admitted privately that he might have voted the same way.

Truman made the concession at a "big four" meeting with congressional chiefs, at which he was urged to withdraw the four nominations. These include Martin Hutchinson of Virginia for the Federal Trade Commission and Carroll Switzer for the Southern Iowa Federal Court.

"You will suffer an embarrassing defeat if you go through with this," warned Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois. "There isn't the slightest chance of the Senate confirming any of the four nominations. I strongly suggest that you withdraw them."

Lucas pointed out it was useless to buck the long-standing Senate "tradition" of never approving a nominee who is objectionable to a Senator from the same State Hutchinson was opposed by Virginia's Sen. Harry Byrd, while Sen. Guy Gillette of Iowa objected to Switzer.

"I'm sorry I can't accept your recommendation, Scott," replied Truman. "But I made those nominations and I intend to stand back of them—all of them. They are good men, well qualified for the positions to which I have named them."

"That may be true, but you'll never get them through the Senate," countered Lucas. The Illinoisan then reminded the President that he (Truman) had voted against Judge Floyd Roberts of Virginia in a similar case when he was a member of the Senate in 1939. Roberts also was opposed by Byrd.

"Yes, I remember that," retorted Truman, without batting an eye. "And if I were in the Senate now I would do the same thing."

Note — the other two Truman appointees, turned down by the Senate, were Neil Andrews for Northern Georgia Federal Judge and Frank Hook of Michigan for the Motor Carrier Claims Commission.

Unfamiliar Face

A rookie Capitol cop, eyeing a "suspicious" character browsing through newspapers in the House lounge, gruffly inquired: "Are you a member?" "Yes, for 26 years," grinned his quarry, GOP Minority Leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts. . . . House Public Works committeemen may literally be addressing the "chair" (with no one in it) when the next Congress convenes. Chairman William Whittington of Mississippi, who is retiring from Congress, will be succeeded by New York Democrat Charles Buckley, tabbed the "phantom Congressman" by Drew Pearson, because he seldom shows up in Washington. (That's providing the Dems retain control in November.) . . . Freshman Representative Tony Tauriello of New York deserves chief credit for lifting Britain's unfair arms embargo on Israel. . . . Tip to Senator Pepper of Florida: "If you want the real lowdown on Senator Brewster's story that he hired Joseph Shimon, wire-tapping D. C. Police lieutenant, to protect him (Brewster) from an alleged "shadow," ask Shimon's assistants on this case. Shimon never once told his confederates about a "shadow" on Brewster, which any good cop normally would do if he was hired to protect a United States Senator. Instead, Shimon ordered his aides to spend all their time tapping the wires of Howard Hughes, the TWA official then under investigation by Brewster.

Atomic Submarine

While world attention is focused on the United States-Russian scramble to perfect the first hydrogen bomb, the secret race to build an atomic submarine may prove to be even more important. Here's the way one atomic expert put the problem:

"This race to build the atomic-powered sub is the most important task now confronting the democracies. If the Russians get it first, we might as well throw in the towel."

He explained that "an atomic sub will be able to stay under water for days, traveling at close to 40 miles per hour. One sub will be able to destroy a whole convoy. Since the A-sub will travel faster than surface sub chasers, it would be virtually impossible to box it in for the kill."

Note — Atomic scientists are highly optimistic over our progress in the A-sub field. They are confident we're ahead of Russia and will stay in the lead.
